NO SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT IN FREIGHT MEN'S STRIKE.

RAILWAYS BALK ON QUESTION OF WAGES.

NO FREIGHT IS BEING MOVED

LOSSES TO MERCHANTS BECOME GIGANTIC.

Chicago, July 14.—At 1:30 p. m. President Curran, of the freight handlers, gave out a statement in which he said:

"All of the conferences today have failed, although we sent committees of their own men to the managers as they had requested. Hereafter, the managers will have to confer with officials of the union. If they want to waste $100,000 a day over a question of a half-cent increase in wages we will let them try it."

MANAGERS' MEETING.

Previous to meeting the committees the railroad managers and superintendents held a meeting among themselves. They remained of the mind that 17c is a proper compromise between the 16c paid and the 18c asked originally by the truckers. This unanimity of opinion among the managers is taken in explanation of the failure of the conferences which followed. Of the managers' meeting F. A. Delano, of the Burlington, said:

"We discussed the situation at length. We talked tentatively of the wage problem. We consider that we have performed our full duty to the public. Our freight houses are manned and ready to do business. If the men want to go back to work they can do so. It is up to the people who have goods to ship to get them to the freight houses. That is the way we look at the situation."

The conferences between committees of the men and the railroad managers generally came to naught. Even when President Curran told the committeemen to accept 17½c, a modification of his earlier instructions, no progress was made.

ONE VIEW OF IT.

A man familiar with the employers' side of the fight said:

"The situation among the railroads is about this: The western roads are swearing mad for the most part and won't budge an inch, the eastern people generally want more time to consider. I suppose this is because they have to do considerable conferring with New York, where most of them have their headquarters. The railroads claim to have enough men in their warehouses to handle all business brought to them. They stand to lose considerable, but it is nothing to what Chicago wholesalers are losing."

TWENTY THOUSAND IDLE.

Chicago, July 14.—The second week of the freight handlers' strike began today with 20,000 men idle and shipping at a standstill. The railroad warehouses, ordinarily a hive of industry, were almost as quiet as they were yesterday, so far as regular business was concerned. At a distance from each warehouse was a company of pickets posted to keep freight from entering or leaving the sheds. Nearer the depots were guards of police, on duty to protect the men in the warehouses and to quell any disturbances which might arise.

Gangs of non-union men brought into the city to take the places of the strikers lounged about the warehouses or in their cars with scarcely anything to do.

LITTLE HOPE OF PEACE.

President Curran, of the freight handlers' union, appointed committees to visit the various railroads. But his proposition had reverted to the original one, further than ever from the ideas of the railroad managers, and no hope was expressed that a settlement would be made today, or even this week. The line between the opposing parties was plainly drawn today and no move of either side was made to cross it.

Wholesale houses made practically no attempt to send out freight or to receive it. These big establishments were all but closed down. The strike has cost them hundreds of thousands of dollars already and they stand to lose millions should the conditions which obtained this morning continue. The loss in wages to the striking freight handlers and their sympathizers, the teamsters, to the railroads and other lines of business, is roughly estimated at considerably over $1,000,000 a day. The situation is admittedly very grave.

WATER STREET DEAD.

Commissioners on South

animated market dead. In times of commercial peace this street is one of the most congested in the world. Today in front of many of the stores there was not a wagon and scarcely a crate, box or barrel of produce. Some had a few barrels brought by boat from Michigan and Wisconsin, but these were about the only fresh arrivals. Thirty cars of highly perishable stuff was reported on the tracks, while many more cars containing commodities which will last a few days longer lay abandoned. Of today's arrivals by rail only three car loads were cared for promptly. These contained live poultry. It was said that the humane society would not allow them to perish and a permit was secured to take them to South Water street. One wholesaler had a car load of Georgia peaches on sale. The peaches came in Saturday by rail, but the teamsters refused to haul anything from the railroads. The dealer thereupon shipped the car around the lake to St. Joseph, Mich., where the consignment was transferred to a boat and reached here this morning.

HUMANE OFFICER AIDED.

In securing the release of the chickens an agent of the humane society was brought into use. He went to President Curran, accompanied by representatives of the firms to whom the fowls had been shipped, and declared that the chickens could not be allowed to remain cooped up to starve.

"I don't want 'em to starve any more'n you do," replied the little man who is at the head of one of Chicago's worst strikes. He thereupon issued an order permitting the removal of the feathered freight.

John G. Shortall, president of the humane society, declared that no "live" shipments should be allowed to suffer, no matter how long the strike lasted.

President Field, of the Knickerbocker Ice company, stated today that the ice men were hauling ice everywhere, including the railway depots and to cars. This was denied by some of the strikers.

HAD A STIRRING TIME.

A driver in a light wagon, who succeeded in delivering two small packages to the Santa Fe had a stirring time of it. When it became apparent to the striking pickets that he was headed for the warehouse, they made a rush for him. A squad of policemen came to the rescue and the driver reached the warehouse in safety. "Better come inside where you'll be safe," one of the non-union freight handlers advised. Several hours later the wagon still stood empty where the driver had left it. The latter remained in the warehouse, while pickets guarded every avenue of escape. So far as could be learned this driver's two packages were the only ones delivered during the forenoon to any depot.

Much fruit and vegetables which came in yesterday was reshipped last night, although it is said without adequate refrigeration. Vegetable and fruit peddlers succeeded in getting partial supplies from the depots during the day, but it was only after much trouble with the pickets and assistance from the police. Tons of half spoiled stuff was given to poor people who waited at nearly all the depots in crowds, each one carrying a basket or bag.

Despite the assertion of President Field, of the Knickerbocker Ice company, that ice was going to the freight house, pickets asserted that not one cake of ice had passed through their lines this forenoon.

HARRY HARRISON VERY ILL.

Harry Harrison, proprietor of Spring Beach hotel, Rome City, is critically ill from heart trouble, and although his condition was slightly improved last night, he is still a very sick man. Mr. Harrison is very well known by Fort Wayne people who visit Rome City and his many friends will be pained to hear of his illness. Mr. Harrison was taken sick Saturday night and for a time it was thought that he could not recover.

TRAIN HELD UP.

Salida, Colo., July 14.—A report was received here shortly before noon today to the effect that the Denver and Rio Grande narrow gauge passenger train, which left here early last night, was held up and robbed by several men near Sargents, west of Marshall pass. Two safes in the express were blown, but express officials say no plunder was secured from them. The passengers were lined up alongside the track and relieved of their valuables.

Mrs. H. T. Hogan is en route to Denver, Col., where she will represent the local auxiliary to the Hibernians at the annual convention. Mr. Hogan accompanied her on the journey as far

SALISBURY IS OUT

FROM OFFICE.

HON. A. J. BALFOUR SUCCEEDS

SIR MICHAEL HICKS-BEACH RE-
SIGNS PORTFOLIO.

RETIREMENT MEANS POWER
FOR CHAMBERLAIN.

London, July 14.—Following fast upon the surprise caused last evening by the announcement that Lord Salisbury, the premier, had resigned last Friday and that Hon. A. J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury, had accepted the prime ministry, came the almost greater surprise today when it was made known that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, chancellor of the exchequer, had tendered his resignation.

Perhaps never has a change of premiership been effected with so little dislocation to business, either public or private, as accompanied the transfer of the seals of office from Lord Salisbury to A. J. Balfour.

HAD NO EFFECT.

The occurrence had no effect whatever on the stock exchange. The only other change in the cabinet thus far announced is the chancellorship of the exchequer, though others are foreshadowed. Mr. Balfour, in addressing the first meeting of his followers at the foreign office this afternoon, informed them that he could not count on the continued assistance of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, but he could count on the latter's good wishes.

The public showed little interest in the party meeting, which was summoned for noon. The new premier, when he entered the conference room of the foreign office, accompanied by the duke of Devonshire, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Lord Londonderry and others, received quite an ovation.

When Mr. Balfour rose to address the meeting all again stood up and cheered the new chief. Mr. Balfour referred to the loss of the services of the chief who for nearly fifty years had been engaged in active political life. No one, he said, would grudge him his well-earned repose, though his loss was irreparable.

"I do not flatter myself," proceeded the premier, "that the gap he has left can be filled. But the place he has left must be occupied and it is because the king has desired me to do my best to take that position that I have asked you to meet me today. I have accepted a great task and a heavy responsibility, certainly from no overweening belief in my own capacity, but because I am sure, or at least have every reason to believe, that in attempting to carry on this work I will have the most important qualification a leader can have, namely, regard for and confidence in those with whom he works."

EXPECTS CO-OPERATION.

"I have not had the opportunity before of consulting you, but I have, of course, consulted with those with whom I have been working in the cabinet these many years, and if the kindness you are prepared to extend to me is at all equal to the kindness they have extended me, then indeed the task before me is greatly mitigated. I cannot now promise myself that I shall have the continued assistance of all my colleagues. One of the most important of them, with whom I have been associated all my political life, and who has occupied and deserves to occupy the highest post in the house of commons and state, has told me that I cannot count on his further assistance. I mean the chancellor of the exchequer. But though I grieve to say I cannot count with any assurance on his further assistance, I can count with absolute confidence on his good wishes in the labors that are before us."

FOLLOWS SALISBURY.

After a warm tribute to Lord Salisbury by the duke of Devonshire, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach rose and said there was no one whom he would have more gladly and more readily have accepted as leader of the party than the man he had followed as leader for more than seven years. But Lord Salisbury's retirement was a break with the traditions of his past political life. Two years ago he had begged for personal and not for political reasons to be relieved from office; but he had consented at Lord Salisbury's instance to retain it to the end of the war. He now felt that the moment had come when could not longer be necessary to the country.

There were younger men who would do the work at least as well as he had been able to do it.

CHAMBERLAIN'S GOOD WISHES.

J. Austen Chamberlain, financial secretary to the treasury, said his father wished him to say how greatly disappointed he was at the fact that he could not be present to welcome Mr. Balfour to the leadership and say with pride and pleasure he would give all the assistance in his power.

Turning toward Mr. Balfour the speaker continued:

"My father bids me to say to you, Mr. Balfour, that you will find in him a colleague equally attached to you by private friendship and public regard, and that in offering you his support he feels he may speak also in the name of the whole liberal unionist party of the house of commons."

After Mr. Chamberlain had delivered his message the conference dispersed.

CAUSED GREAT SURPRISE.

The resignation of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach caused intense surprise. It was generally taken to be almost more important than Lord Salisbury's, and was regarded in some quarters as being directly due to the more important voice which Mr. Chamberlain will have in the new cabinet.

John Redmond, leader of the Irish party in the house of commons, said to a representative of the Associated Press:

"It will have a more immediate and material result than Lord Salisbury's retirement. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach was an excellent check on Chamberlain, who is now practically all powerful."

"I do not regard the general political situation as being at all changed by Lord Salisbury's disappearance from active life."

Several other changes are likely to occur, including the retirement of Earl Cadogan, the lord lieutenant of Ireland, and the elevation of George Wyndham, the chief secretary for Ireland, to a seat in the cabinet.

Speculation is already rife as to who will be Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's successor. The name of E. W. Hanbury, president of the board of agriculture, is frequently mentioned.

RESIGNATION OF PREMIER.

London, July 14.—The fact of the resignation of the premiership of Great Britain by Lord Salisbury, as foreshadowed in recent dispatches, was officially given out last evening. The prime minister laid down the responsibility of his office July 11. Within twenty-four hours his majesty elevated A. J. Balfour, the government chief representative in the house of commons, to the position of premier.

While it was expected in official and political circles that Lord Salisbury's retirement would be coincident with the coronation of King Edward, it was scarcely looked for prior to that event. Consequently about the only surprise expressed as the news spread through London concerned the date, rather than the fact, of the resignation. The real interest was not so much in reference to Lord Salisbury's withdrawal as it was in the appointment of his successor.

The liveliest speculation is rife as to the personnel of the new cabinet. The most discussed feature of the pending changes is the position of Mr. Chamberlain (the colonial secretary), who, in many quarters, has been regarded as the most promising candidate for the premiership.

It is learned that prior to the acceptance of his new office, Mr. Balfour first had an interview with Mr. Chamberlain and then consulted with his other cabinet assistants. This is regarded as assurance that the future relative positions of Messrs. Balfour and Chamberlain will be satisfactory to both. Mr. Chamberlain's friends say he always recognized the revision of the premiership to be Mr. Balfour's right as government leader in the house of commons.

SALISBURY'S REASONS.

As to Lord Salisbury's withdrawal, the main reason is considered by practically all the best-informed persons to have been simply a desire for a quiet life on the part of a man advanced in years, whose activities have been unusual and whose scientific tastes predispose him to study and seclusion. That the retired premier's health has failed to some extent is undeniable, but this is not more than, perhaps, is to be expected in a man of his years, and the close of the war in South Africa and the return of the commanding general there is considered to be an appropriate

STILL A MYSTERY

NO NEW DETAILS OF SUDDEN
DEATH AT GRAND RAPIDS.

A FORT WAYNE SPIRITUALIST AND CLAIRVOYANT.

FAMILY GETS NO RESPONSE

BUT SAY DEATH MUST HAVE BEEN ACCIDENTAL.

No additional information has reached Fort Wayne today concerning the identity of the stranger who died suddenly Sunday afternoon in the American hotel at Grand Rapids, and who is presumed to have been Edwin E. Parker, a spiritualist lecturer, clairvoyant and palmist, whose home is in Fort Wayne.

Reported telegrams sent today from the Parker home, at 413 Madison street, to personal friends in Grand Rapids, as well as to the hotel management, asking for further details, had elicited no reply up to 2 o'clock this afternoon, and the members of the family are nearly prostrated by the distressing news and the suspense which has followed the delay in completing the identification.

It is stated at the Parker home that the telegraphed description of the dead man corresponds almost minutely to that of Mr. Parker, and while they of course cling to some slight measure of hope that there has been a mistake, Mrs. Parker and her daughters are almost convinced that the dead man is their husband and father.

The family, however, scout the idea that the case could have been one of suicide, for they say Mr. Parker would never have ended his life intentionally. It is related, however, that for some years Mr. Parker has suffered intensely at intervals from neuralgia and that he was occasionally compelled to resort to the use of remedies to ease the pain. It is regarded as probable that an overdose may have been taken unintentionally and that the death was purely accidental.

Information from Grand Rapids is to the effect that the death was undoubtedly due to morphine poisoning, though whether taken with suicidal intent or not is not yet shown. The stranger reached the American hotel Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, and in a casual conversation with a gentleman there told him he was about to hold meetings near Mill Creek, where a spiritualistic camp-meeting is in progress.

He went to bed, leaving a call for 10 o'clock, but at that hour did not respond to a rap upon his door. When at 4 o'clock a more vigorous rapping at his door did not arouse the man, the door was forced open. He lay upon the bed, only partially conscious and apparently suffering great agony. All efforts to revive him failed, and death ensued at 5 o'clock.

The dead man is about five feet eight inches tall, gray mustache and gray hair, and is quite bald. He wore black trousers, black and gray striped coat and vest, and the only mark upon the clothing are the letters "E. C. P." on the shirt. He also wore a G. A. R. button, and is apparently about 60 years of age.

FOUND SOME ADDRESSES.

In the pockets of the dead man were found several slips of paper on which messages and addresses were written. One of these was addressed to "Mate," 538 North Ottawa street, Grand Rapids, and said: "Mate, this is Bradley, my friend." It was unsigned. Mrs. Mattie Pierson, who lives at the above number in Grand Rapids, visited the undertaking rooms to which the remains were taken, but was unable to identify the dead man or shed any light upon the meaning of the note.

In a notebook in the pockets of the dead man was the address of Mrs. J. J. Grafton, 1613 North Wells street, Fort Wayne, with the statement: "I give Mr. Parker permission while away to look in the crystal for me. Kill anything you can see for me." When seen last evening Mrs. Grafton stated that she had consulted the clairvoyant a short time ago, had given him a slip of paper bearing her address, and had also delegated to him authority to "look in the crystal for her," which she explained was a form of clairvoyant practice to obtain knowledge of the future.

Several slips of paper in the pockets of the dead man bore questions such one would naturally write on a visit to a clairvoyant. Among them were "Will I get a better job and

Mr. Parker, who resided with his wife and two daughters at 413 Madison street, left Fort Wayne Thursday for Briggs' park, near Grand Rapids, where a spiritualistic camp-meeting is in progress. He had leased a cottage there and expected to spend the summer in the work. His daughter, Miss Mary, was to have joined him this week. The family state that he was apparently in good health and in the best of spirits when he left home, and they received a letter from him on Saturday. It was written at the camp ground, told of having leased a pretty cottage, meeting a large number of prominent mediums from various parts of the country, and expressed a delighted enthusiasm over the outlook for the session. It stated also that he would write them again on Sunday. The family removed to Fort Wayne from Richmond about two years ago. Mr. Parker was a spiritualistic lecturer and often conducted the services of the local organization of spiritualists. He was also a clairvoyant and palmist, and had an extensive clientele in this city.

GO INTO THE FATAL MINE

MINERS RESUME WORK IN THE CAMBRIA SHAFTS.

Klondike Department, Where Explosion Occurred, is Being Cleared and Explored.

Johnstown, Pa., July 14.—Operations were today started in every section of the Rolling Mills mine of the Cambria Steel company, except the Klondike, where the fatal explosion of Thursday occurred.

A majority of the fifty men on hand when the first trip went into the mine, were foreigners. They did not seem to have the least hesitation in re-entering the mine, where so many of their fellow countrymen lost their lives. It was just seven o'clock when the men started in the slope and in a short time they were at work cleaning up the rooms. This work will take some time and it is thought it will be after noon before the first run of coal can be brought out of the mine.

A full force of men is expected to be at work before night, with the exception of the Klondike, where a large force of men are employed clearing up the falls and repairing the brattices that were blown down. When this is completed, the mine inspectors will make an investigation before it can be opened again for operation.

The inquest will probably not be held before next Thursday. No more bodies were brought out or have been discovered and the mine has apparently been explored fully. Nevertheless some miners claim that many bodies will still be found therein.

A surveying party went into the mine this morning to look over the entire mine and make a last search for any bodies that may be in there. They probably will be in all day and when they complete their work the exploration of the mine will be finished.

The officials at the mine office say that the only place where any may be found hereafter is in some of the abandoned workings where some of the men might have run in trying to escape from the explosion. The tracks in some places are still covered with rubbish and it is possible that some bodies may be found under this when it is cleared up.

With the resumption of work in the mine today, following the burial of all but a few of the dead yesterday, the intense strain has relaxed, excitement is dying out and everyday affairs are beginning to resume their normal course.

WINDWARD SAILS TODAY.

New York, July 14.—The Peary relief ship Windward will begin her voyage to the Arctic regions late this afternoon. The work of taking on stores has proceeded rapidly today and it is believed that nothing will now interfere with her scheduled departure. The Windward will stop first at Portland, Me., and then at Sydney, where Mrs. Peary and her daughter will be taken aboard.

Clyde Ruch, a young man residing three miles southwest of the city, was painfully injured in a fall from a haymow on Sunday. He was severely bruised about the shoulder and back, but will recover.

Miss Dora Bender, of Grand Street, has returned from Upper Sandusky, Ohio, where she has been visiting.

SUCCESSOR TO WU

SIR LIANG CHEN TUNG GIVEN
WASHINGTON POST.
AMERICANS IN PEKIN LIKE IT
NEW MINISTER IS ABLE AND MODEST, IT IS SAID.
HE WAS EDUCATED AT YALE
MR. WU WILL CODIFY LAWS OF
THE EMPIRE.

Pekin, July 14.—Sir Liang Chen Tung, secretary of the Chinese embassy to the coronation of King Edward, was appointed Chinese minister to the United States yesterday. New ministers to Russia, France and Italy also have been named. The selections for these post show that the dowager empress continues to regard the diplomatic service as unimportant. None of the appointees is of higher than the Blue Bottom rank and none has held any important office. All of them except Liang Chen Tung are unknown to the foreign community. Liang Chen Tung's appointment pleases the Americans here. The newly appointed diplomat is a graduate of Yale university and is able, dignified and honest. He is the first of the body of students sent to America in the '70's to receive recognition for their accomplishments, the Chinese officials having disliked them because of their progressive views.

MINISTER WU NOT SURPRISED.
Washington, July 14.—Mr. Wu, the Chinese minister at Washington, was not surprised to hear of the appointment of a successor to himself, as he has been expecting an announcement of this character for some time. He had received notice that his services would be required in another capacity and for this reason has been prepared to hear of the naming of his successor at any time. Sir Liang Chen Tung, the newly appointed minister, is a comparatively young man, being only a little over 40 years of age. Like the present minister, he is said to be a man of progressive ideas, whose opinions have been formed from his education, which was received partly in the United States, from his former connection with the Chinese embassy here and from his contact with European civilization in the course of several special missions.

SENT TO AMERICA TO STUDY.
He was in one of the four parties of Chinese boys who were sent to the United States twenty years ago to complete their education. The idea of the Chinese government was to have each boy spend fifteen years in this country—ten years in the preparatory schools and the remainder in the universities. Before Chen had completed his course, however, the plan was discontinued and he returned home. While Chang was minister to Washington some years ago Tung served as interpreter during the three years of his incumbency; later he was secretary of a special mission sent to Japan, and when the jubilee of Queen Victoria was celebrated he filled a similar position in the embassy which went to London. It was from his connection with the latter mission that he obtained his knighthood and received the title of sir. Last year, when China dispatched a special mission to Germany to make formal apologies for the murder of Baron Von Ketteler, Tung was a member of the party. Minister Wu has not been advised officially of the appointment of his successor.

WU CORDIALLY LIKED HERE.
The retiring minister, Mr. Wu, has been at this capital since April, 1897. His relations with the administrations of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt have been of a most cordial character. The ordinary term of ministers in the Chinese diplomatic service is three years and they are not reappointed. Mr. Wu's term of service, however, has been continued indefinitely from time to time. He was of great assistance to his government during the "boxer" troubles. Several months ago he was appointed a member of the commission to codify the existing Chinese laws and prepare a set of modern laws for his country, and it is this business which in all probability the Chinese government has in store for him when he returns to his native land. Mr. Wu also is minister to Spain and Peru.

the left temple and death was instantaneous. Feniger is forty-six years old and has been troublesome to the police for a number of years. He was under the influence of liquor when he committed the crime. The tragedy was enacted within a short distance of Feniger's home. Feniger is still unconscious at a local hospital and the physicians who are in charge of him say he has only one chance in a hundred to recover. He was recently arrested for assaulting an officer and spent several weeks in jail. The officers believe he is insane and have been keeping a close watch on him for the past several weeks.

ANCIENT CAMPANILE IN RUINS
FAMOUS VENETIAN LANDMARK
SUDDENLY COLLAPSES.
Historic Bell Tower of St. Marks is Heap of Crumbling Debris—Was to be Repaired.

Venice, Italy, July 14.—The Campanile, (detached bell tower) of St. Mark's church, 98 metres high, collapsed at 10:45 this morning and fell with a great crash into the piazza. The Campanile, which was entirely detached from the cathedral, collapsed where it stood and is now a heap of ruins. The cathedral and palace of the doges are quite safe, but a corner of the royal palace was damaged. Repairs on the Campanile were to have been commenced today. It is feared there was some loss of life. The ruins are surrounded by a cordon of troops.

The first intimation of danger was the sudden appearance yesterday of a longitudinal crack in the corner of the wall facing the clock tower and the breaking of two windows. A concert which had been arranged to be held on the piazza yesterday evening was stopped by order of the prefect, with the object of preventing a concourse of people. The ruins are piled up to a height of 100 feet and the Piazza di San Marco and the adjoining squares are covered with debris and dust. Some damage was done to the Sansovino Loggetta, or vestibule, on the east side of the Campanile.

Closer investigation shows that the Campanile in falling carried away the Sansovino loggetta and the library of the royal palace. Preliminary signs of the collapse allowed a partial clearance of the piazza and there were no fatalities, but a few persons were injured. The disaster caused an immense sensation. The town and communal councils have been summoned to meet this evening.

The Campanile stood opposite the church, or cathedral of St. Mark's. It was founded in 883, restored in 1329, provided with a marble top in 1417 and in 1517 was crowned with the figure of an angel nearly 16 feet high. The loggetta or vestibule, on the east side of the Campanile was once a rendezvous of the Nobili and afterwards a waiting room for the guards during the sessions of the great council. There were bronze statues of Peace, Apollo, Mercury and Pallas on the coping of the Campanile and its fine bronze doors were much admired. At the top of the tower a fire watchman, with a telescope, was continually stationed.

HAUSBACH-HUBER.
Miss Oluna Huber, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Huber, was united in marriage to Edward J. Hausbach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hausbach, at St. Patrick's Catholic church Wednesday, Rev. J. F. Delaney officiating. The bride was attired in a becoming gown of white organdie embroidered and wore a picture hat of white shirred mull and white violets. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses, a white prayer book and pearl rosary. Her cousin, Miss Emma Cox, was bridesmaid and wore a dainty dress of French lawn and a hat of white mull trimmed with roses. She carried a spray of pink carnations. Roy Hausbach, brother of the groom, was best man. A wedding breakfast was served afterward at the groom's home, the rooms being beautifully decorated with palms, roses, carnations, sweet peas and smilax. The bride's table was done in pink and white, pink ribbons being draped from the chandelier to each corner of the table, where the ends were fastened with bouquets of sweet peas. A triple-plated mirror, surrounded by a wreath of smilax, occupied the center of the table and upon the mirror stood a large basket made of white blossoms holding sweet peas and bride's roses. In the evening at 7 there was a reception, which was attended by over 200 guests. Refreshments were served at 11. Mr. and Mrs. Hausbach received a large number of handsome gifts. S. A. Burrows leaves this week for his old home at Franklin, O., where he will spend some weeks attending the Chautauqua in session there.

RETURNS HOME FROM JAPAN

MISS GRACE GLENN ARRIVED
SATURDAY NIGHT.
Has Been a Missionary in Japan Four Years and is Home on Account of Ill Health.

Miss Grace Glenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Glenn, of 319 West DeWald street, arrived home Saturday evening after a four years' sojourn in Japan. Miss Glenn was met in New York by her parents and the Misses Bessie and Carrie Glenn and Thomas B. Wright, and the party returned home with her, excepting Mr. Wright, who will visit in the east for a few weeks.

Miss Glenn started for home April 11, coming by way of the Suez canal and visiting several of the Asiatic and European countries on the way. She spent a month in England, sailing from London on July 2d, and arriving in New York July 10, after an unusually rough passage. About a year ago Miss Glenn was taken sick, but continued her work until the condition of her health made it imperative for her to seek a change of climate, and she was granted an eighteen months' vacation. She expects to remain in this city until October, when she will make a lecture tour through this part of the country in the interest of Japanese missions.

Miss Glenn is one of the instructors in a seminary for Japanese girls in Kanazawa, where fifty pupils are being educated. The seminary is a branch of Oxford college and was founded about seventeen years ago. It is conducted along the same lines as Oxford college and the course of study is very similar. Miss Glenn is very enthusiastic on the subject of Christian work in Japan and she talked very entertainingly to a Sentinel reporter this morning concerning the progress being made by missionaries in that country.

"Japan is very appropriately called the 'France of the orient,'" said Miss Glenn. "The Japanese are courteous, vivacious, quick to adopt new ideas and they are among the most patriotic people of the world." Miss Glenn talked at length about the Japanese and their country and showed the reporter part of a large collection of Japanese curios, consisting of curiously inscribed china, toys made of tortoise shell and bric-a-brac of every description. "The Christian church," said Miss Glenn, "is doing a great work in Japan, and although we have less than half enough missionaries to cover the field even sparsely, the work is being carried on in a spirit that will be productive of great results in a few years. Fifteen years ago, when Japan at first decided to adopt western civilization, it was also decided to adopt the Christian religion, but the masses could not adapt themselves to the new order of things in such a hurry and the great outward manifestation of Christianity which was made at that time was followed by a reaction that gave the church a setback for years. It was a good thing for the Christian church in several respects, for only those few who had become earnest Christians remained steadfast, and they formed a nucleus of a strong Christian organization in Japan. Since then the spread of Christianity has been slow, but the growth has been steady.

"A great many students in the Japanese universities have become Christians, and it is through these that the missionaries expect to eventually Christianize Japan. The student body is largely composed of the middle and upper classes, and when these two divisions of Japanese society adopt Christianity the lower classes will follow their example. "The Young Men's Christian association is doing a great work in Japan and there are a number of branches in the larger cities. They are principally among the college students and the membership is very large. There are several Christians in the governing bodies, the head of the lower house being one of the leading Christian workers of the country."

Kanazawa, the city in which Miss Glenn's school is located, is one of the largest in the empire and is one of the educational centers of Japan. It is the seat of the famous Koutani potteries, where some of the finest china in the world is made. Kanazawa is situated on the southwestern coast of the central island of the group and the climate is decidedly unfavorable to those not inured to it. Miss Glenn retained her health much longer than the average foreigner, but the dampness caused by excessive rains eventually undermined her health and made it necessary for her to give up her work for a time.

HIBERNIAN ORDER TO MEET
DELEGATES ARE GATHERING IN DENVER.
President Keating Will Not Stand for Re-Election—Outlines Scope of Work.

Denver, Colo., July 14.—The work of the forty-second biennial convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians began today with a meeting of the national executive committee and board of directors. Five hundred delegates are expected when the convention opens tomorrow. The national officers deny that politics will be injected into the deliberations. "The convention," said President John Keating, "will occupy itself with the extension of the order, and will take action on the death of Archbishop Feehan, of Chicago, the national chaplain of the order. His death is the more deeply regretted as he was carrying on an important work in organizing the ranks of the order in the old country. "We expect that the organization in Ireland and that in the United States will be united in the next six or eight months. "As to the charges that the executive has been influenced by the Clan Na Gael or any other body, I will say that the administration for the last four years has been as conservative as any I can remember in my long connection with the order."

An anonymous circular is in circulation calling upon good Hibernians to oppose any resolution which may be offered endorsing the Clan Na Gael. President Keating has announced that he is not a candidate for re-election. James E. Dolan, of Syracuse, N. Y., national vice president, and John A. Ryan, of Boston, are mentioned as candidates for the presidency.

F. C. Blanchard lowered the record made on the links of the Fort Wayne Golf club on Saturday for both nine and eighteen hole courses. Mr. Blanchard made the nine-hole course in forty-one and the eighteen-hole in eighty-seven. F. I. Brown won second place by defeating O. F. Evans by five up and three to play, and Otto Peters and A. S. Bond contested for fourth place, Mr. Peters winning.

LOCAL LINES.
This afternoon contractors are figuring in Architect J. M. E. Riedel's office on the construction of a sewer at Concordia college. The sewer will have connections with all the college buildings and will connect with the city system. Eighteen-inch tile will be used. Seven ladies of Plymouth Congregational church have formed a club, which will give an ice cream social Tuesday evening on the lawn of Rev. C. W. Bailey's residence, 130 West Creighton avenue.

Kodol Digests what you Eat
Dyspepsia Cure
The medical profession is one of the most conservative in the world. It is well that it should be so. We want no experimenting with our lives or health. The physician is naturally and justifiably careful to prescribe no remedy until well satisfied of its merits. So it is no small testimonial to the worth of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure that it is coming into general use among physicians of all classes. They appreciate even more readily than the layman that it gives weak stomachs just the rest they need and are prescribing it freely with wonderfully successful results. Nothing is necessary. Eat all you want. While you are strengthening the body with wholesome food Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is restoring the stomach to perfect health by relieving it of its work. Don't be satisfied with merely temporary relief when this remedy offers a complete cure. "I have used in my practice quite a lot of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure with no failures but relief in almost all cases," writes Dr. W. L. Wallace of Kingsree, S. C. "After an active practice of forty-five years this is the first time I have ever had occasion to publicly advise all dyspeptics that they have a certain remedy in Kodol Dyspepsia Cure."

Lord Salisbury, the British premier, has resigned, and Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury in the Salisbury cabinet, has been elevated to the prime ministry. During the past year or two frequent rumors of Lord Salisbury's purpose to resign have gained currency only to be discounted and denied. Since the end of the Boer war, however, such rumors have been not only persistent,
but have been generally credited.
It was not expected, though, that the premier would quit his office until after the coronation of King Edward, and announcement at this time of his retirement causes some surprise.
The resignation of Lord Salisbury means no harm to the British empire. Great as he was as a leader, he was in no sense a masterful statesman. Tory born, tory bred and tory to his very marrow, toryism was the source of all his impulses and actions.
Lord Salisbury believed religiously in the ruling classes, the supremacy of the aristocracy, of which the Cecil, his own family, were in his view a most stupendous part. Lord Salisbury was a man of immense abilities, a politician of surpassing skill and craftiness and a leader who could devise a trick or expedient for any emergency. The circumstances of his retirement emphasize this last quality to a nicety. He did not want and the king did not want Joseph Chamberlain, the secretary for the colonies, to succeed to the premiership. Chamberlain expected the distinction and his life has been bent to achievement of that honor. Salisbury resigned at a time when injury from an accident held Chamberlain down, and rushed his nephew, Balfour, into the vacancy. Balfour, however, is vastly more acceptable to the British public than Chamberlain.
He has capacity, training and skill in affairs, though he has not (no Englishman now living has) Lord Salis-bury's intimate and stupendous knowledge of European politics, unless it be Sir Charles Dilke. The Balfour ministry does not inherit specially grave problems. Peace has returned to South Africa and the rehabilitation of the newly annexed colonies does not present anything more difficult than diligent labor at detail in carrying out the peace terms. The ministry's grave tasks will be financial rather than political.

CARRIER FORCE INCREASED

ADDITIONAL MAIL MAN TO BE

Department Grants Request From Fort Wayne Postoffice—New Eligible List.

The postoffice department has granted the application of Postmaster Page for an increase in the force of mail carriers at the Fort Wayne postoffice, and an additional carrier will begin work October 1. This is the outcome of the recent visit here of an inspector, to whom it was demonstrated that the Fort Wayne carriers were covering a territory much larger than those in the average city, and that the growth of the city made additional help necessary. Milton
R. Smith is now the senior substitute, and will doubtless be advanced to the new position on the regular list. This will make the total number of regular carriers twenty-three.
NEW ELIGIBLE LIST.

Of the twelve applicants who took the examination for positions as clerk and carriers in the Fort Wayne postoffice on June 11, five were successful in making a satisfactory grade, and are now placed upon the eligible list for appointment as vacancies occur. The successful applicants, with their grades, are as follows: Charles N. Stutsman, 87.55;
Samuel L. Stover, 82.90; Robert H.
Carter, 82.55; Charles A. Underwood, 77.25; Henry Storch, 70.40.

LORD SALISBURY AND A. J. BALFOUR

A Sketch of Great Britain's Retiring Premier and the Man Who Succeeds Him in the Empire's Most Important Office.

The Rt. Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, the new premier, who was first lord of England's treasury and government leader in the house of commons, is an uncommonly fortunate man. Just at the particular moment when his downfall in politics is predicted something somehow happens that elevates him higher than he was before. The illness of his uncle, Lord Salisbury, in 1898, gave Balfour the temporary control of the foreign office. He was then the guiding hand in the diplomacy of England in all parts of the world. Yet Ireland attached to his name long ago the adjective of "bloody," and for years his opponents in the commons called him a "perfumed fop." Since 1874, when he first entered parliament for East Manchester, his opponents have insisted that he was a failure—that he could never rise to eminence—that he wore the glove of a gallant—that he minced with the words of a woman.
He was secretary to Scotland in 1893.
Eight years prior to that time he sat in the Berlin congress as secretary to Salisbury. After the Scottish secretaryship he received that of Ireland, where his position was a dangerous
one for all the years he occupied it.
In 1891 he became first lord of the treasury, a position he still holds, and to which he has added the honor of being the conservative leader in the commons. Balfour is a golf player, an equestrian, a student, a writer of philosophical works and treatises, a biometalist. Englishmen say that in debate Chamberlain strikes with a bludgeon; Balfour punctuates with a rapier. They say Chamberlain wins when everything is against him; that Balfour wins when all is with him.
Some tales are told of Balfour that may be true. He is said to boast that he never reads the newspapers and that he enjoys his bed until noon.
His supporters are constantly aggravated by his lack of respect for the house of commons. He attends his sessions a little as possible. He was born in Scotland July 25, 1848, and therefore is but 52 years of age—
a young prime minister.

The marquis of Salisbury, the retiring premier, known in his younger days as "Bob Cecil," is the third marquis, and was born at Hatfield, the family seat, in Hertfordshire, February 13, 1830. He was educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford, where he was graduated, and he was elected a fellow of All Souls, the aristocratic and conservative college, in 1853. In the same year he entered parliament as a member for Stanford, which is and always has been a pocket borough of the Cecil family.

He held the membership as a conservative until April, 1868, when he succeeded to the marquise. While in the lower house he was known as Lord Robert Cecil and later as Lord Cranbourne, a courtesy title. During his membership of the commons he was a leader-writer on the daily press, a prolific contributor to the Saturday Review and a writer on ecclesiastical and political subjects in the Quarterly Review. During his long connection with the press he gained a reputation as a caustic, satirical and brilliant writer rather than a solid or profound thinker, though his articles are able and far above mediocrity. In 1857 he married Miss Alderson, daughter of the exchequer baron of the name and niece of Mrs.
Ogle, the authoress. His official political career began with his appointment as secretary of state for India in 1860, a position which he resigned on account of objection to the Tory reform bill of 1867. In 1869 he was elected chancellor of the University of Oxford, succeeding the late earl of Derby. He again took the Indian secretaryship under Mr. Disraeli in 1874. During the Serbian war he was sent as special ambassador to the Porte during the Constantinople conference and managed the whole affair.
In April, 1878, he was appointed foreign secretary and later went to the Berlin congress with Lord Beaconsfield, and brought back a part of the celebrated "peace with honor," for which he received the Order of the Garter. He became prime minister in 1885 and served until 1892. He assumed the same office in 1895 and held it until his resignation, last week. As a speaker he is effectiveterse, clear and at all times vigorous and never feeble. In appearance he is tall, bent, awkward, bald-headed and ungainly, full-bearded and with melancholy, appealing eyes. He is a hard, earnest and faithful worker and has a right to be called a statesman, though an unscrupulous one.
He is impetuous, cynical and a skir-misher in tactics. With him Toryism is an inborn, inbred and overpowering principle; he believes in that and that alone.

FORT WAYNE LAD LEADS PUR-SUERS A LIVELY CHASE.

Louis Neimeier, 17 Years Old, Defies Parents and Eludes Man Sent After Him.

A seventeen-year-old boy from Fort Wayne, who had his head set on getting to St. Louis, where he could enlist in the regular army, caused trouble enough for his pursuer last night and this morning to have precipitated a storm of profanity from a Quaker, says the Logansport Reporter.
Yesterday afternoon Louis Nei-meier, who resides with his parents on a farm in the vicinity of Fort Wayne, accompanied by two other boys who were likewise looking for work, left Fort Wayne with the intention of enlisting at the United States recruiting office at St. Louis. The boys' parents were opposed to the enlistment and commissioned William Mohrhold to head the boy off.
He followed him to the town of Wabash, but missed his quarry there, and last night came to Logansport and began a search for the runaway.
He found out that the boy and his companions would take the train which leaves the city at 7:42 a. m.
and accordingly started for the station this morning to head them off.
When he reached the Ninth street station the train was just disappearing down the track, and the boy, who had outwitted his pursuer, waved his hand in a joyful farewell as the train rounded the curve in the direction of the Wabash bridge.
Mr. Mohrhold went to police headquarters and asked that the Lafayette police be notified to take charge of the runaway, but the delay in getting long-distance telephone connection was such that the train had left Lafayette before the police of that city could get to the station.
The defeated Mr. Mohrhold finally gave up the chase and took the first train back to Fort Wayne, where he will see the boy's parents and have a telegram sent to St. Louis for the capture of the boy when the train arrives there, which it is scheduled to do at 4 o'clock this afternoon.
Young Neimeier and his companions are well supplied with money and seem to be composed of the material of which good soldiers are made.

MRS. AMANDA GEORGE EXPIRES
AT ANDERSON.

Lived Sixty-Two Days Without Food —End Comes at Camp Grounds of Spiritualists.

Anderson, Ind., July 14.—Mrs.
Amanda George, of Indianapolis, died last night at the spiritualist camp ground after sixty-two days without either solid or liquid food. Her long fast is said to have broken all records. She had been afflicted with cancer of the stomach. This necessitated the fasting and she literally starved to death. She was seventy-eight years old.

Mrs. George was first taken ill four years ago with stomach troubles, which later developed into cancer.
This was while she lived at Indianapolis. A year later she came to Chesterfield and took up her residence at the spiritualist camp grounds. A short while later she became seriously ill. Dr. Newhouse has been in constant attendance. He says she suffered a great deal all the time and this was especially true when she took food. Sixty-two days ago it became impossible for her to take food and from that time the woman has been fasting.
Mrs. George was stout and Dr.
Newhouse gives this as the reason for her living so long without nourishment. Her abdomen was three inches thick and she had been living on her own flesh. Mrs. George retained her mental activity up until two or three days ago.

It is via the Pennsylvania, July 24, to Niagara Falls and return for $6.50 via Cleveland and steamer. Cleveland and Buffalo line have assigned one of their best boats for this occasion.

place upon the shoulders of the young.
This treacherous disease dwarfs the body and hinders the growth and development of the faculties, and the child born of blood poison, or scrofula-tainted parentage, is poorly equipped for life's duties.
Scrofula is a disease with numerous and varied symptoms; enlarged glands or tumors about the neck and armpits, catarrh of the head, weak eyes and dreadful skin eruptions upon different parts of the body show the presence of tubercular or scrofulous matter in the blood. This dangerous and stealthy disease entrenches itself securely in the system and attacks the bones and tissues, destroys the red corpuscles of the blood, resulting in white swelling, a pallid, waxy appearance of the skin, loss of strength and a gradual wasting away of the body.
S. S. S. combines both purifying and tonic properties, and is guaranteed entirely vegetable, making it the ideal remedy in all scrofulous affections. It purifies the deteriorated blood, makes it rich and strong and a complete and permanent cure is soon effected. S. S. S. improves the digestion and assimilation of food, restores the lost properties to the blood and quickens the circulation, bringing a healthy color to the skin and vigor to the weak and emaciated body.
Write us about your case and our physicians will cheerfully advise and help you in every possible way to regain your health. Book on blood and skin diseases free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

CONSTIPATION

"I have gone 14 days at a time without a movement of the bowels, not being able to move them except by using hot water injections. Chronic constipation for many years placed me in this terrible condition; during that time I did everything I heard of but never found any relief; such was my case until I began using CASCARETS. I now have from one to three passages a day, and I was rich I would give $100.00 for each movement; it is such a relief."

PULLED GUN ON AN OFFICER

WILBUR MOORE CAUGHT RED-HANDED AT ROBBERY.

Lad Showed Desperate Disposition—
Young Companion Released,
But Moore is Held.

Jude Drebelbies, who is still hobnobbing with fish and aristocrats up at Lake George, left a rather unsavory mess for Hon. H. I. Smith, acting judge, to take care of this morning. Wilbur Moore and Willie Thompson, two lads of immature age, were arraigned on the serious charges of daylight burglary and larceny and the evidence was flatly against them. Moore's case was taken under advisement, while that of young Thompson was continued indefinitely and he was released on his own recognizance.

For several days Pottlitzer Bros., commission fruit merchants on Harrison street, have been missing sums of money from their till, ranging from forty-five cents to $5, and last Saturday Detective Coling was detailed to investigate the case. Coling went to the store shortly after 5 o'clock and secreted himself, and about 6 o'clock the store was locked up as usual and, acting according to instructions, every employe and proprietor immediately left the premises. Less than half an hour later Coling from his hiding place saw a young fellow emerge from a cellar stairway and make straight for the cash drawer. This was Moore. He saw the young fellow get a handful of money, and as he turned to leave the counting room Coling accosted him with: "Hey, there, young fellow, I guess I want you!"

"I guess not," said the young lad, as he whipped out a revolver, which was only a .22, but which the detective said for a minute looked like a thirteen-inch gun—the young fellow had got it out so quick. Coling in a second thrust his own revolver under the fellow's nose and told him to throw up his hands, which order was promptly complied with. The stolen money, amounting to $1.30, was still in Moore's hand. Outside, the detective a few minutes later arrested Willie Thompson, a boy of 15, who had been stationed to watch. Both boys were locked up and held until this morning. Meanwhile, Coling, who was surprised at the coolness and nerve of Moore, and the promptness with which he got his revolver when accosted, made some further investigations and learned that while Moore was in the cellar he heard the creaking of Coling's shoes on the floor above him, Coling having moved his position, and, running to the cellar grade, through which he had effected an entrance, told Thompson to see who was in the store, as he had heard someone walk. Thompson reconnoitered, but saw no one and so informed the chief burglar. "I'll watch out, anyway," said Moore, "and if anybody tries to stop me, I'll kill 'im," with which he took his little revolver out of his pocket and carried it in his hand as he disappeared.

CONFESSED GUILTY.
When asked to plead to the charge of having burglarized the store and stolen $1.30, Moore pleaded guilty, and on further questioning said that this was the only time he had ever been in the place and that he stole the money because he was hungry and wanted to buy something to eat. He stoutly denied ever having been engaged in any disreputable transaction before, but this story was upset by young Thompson before the story was over. The judge was at first inclined to assess a nominal fine and jail sentence, but after other things began to develop he concluded to take the matter under advisement until tomorrow, meantime sending the young man to jail for safe keeping. Moore is about 16 years of age and has lived here for three or four years, with the exception of a few months last fall. He says his father is dead and that he does not know where his mother is, she having left the city about three months ago. Meantime, he has been sleeping in barns and doing odd jobs of work, according to his own story.

OF GOOD PARENTAGE.
Young Thompson is a bright looking lad of fifteen, living with his parents at 404 Pearl street. The parents are eminently respectable, hard-working people, who feel the disgrace brought upon them by their son's action most keenly. The father is an employe at the electric light works and the boy was formerly employed as a Western Union messenger. The lad said that he had known young Moore for several years and knew of his depredations; but that he never realized the actual gravity of the offenses he was assisting to commit; that he had never taken any actual part in any burglary, but had received 10 cents as his portion of the swag one day last week. He said that Moore and a boy named Roy Weinbrenner had entered Pottlitzer's store three times previously last week—once on Tuesday, once on Wednesday and the third time on Friday night. He was cognizant of all these robberies, but did not know how much had been realized.

Mr. Diamond, of the Pottlitzer firm, said that the dates corresponded and that $3 and $5 had been taken on two of the occasions and 45 cents on the third.

ATTORNEY'S STRONG PLEA.
Attorney Genke put in a plea for young Thompson and presented to the court that the little fellow was not really bad, but had unfortunately been found in bad company; that he believed his present experience would prove a lesson, and that he could be made a good and useful citizen if given a chance and was not branded in his youth as a criminal; that while he was implicated, he had done nothing really criminal, and that he should be given a chance. The attorney's plea was very pathetic and the pathos was heightened by the presence of the mother, who with tears streaming down her cheeks looked appealingly at the judge, and the father, who looked very thoughtful and very much heartbroken over the unfortunate affair. The boy, too, sobbed audibly while the attorney was addressing the court. The prosecutor intimated that he had no inclination to deal harshly with the little fellow, but thought that the ring-leader was rather accomplished as a criminal and should be taken care of. The judge thereupon called young Thompson to his desk, gave him a sound lecture and some very good advice, and after exacting a promise from him that he would discard his old associates and not upon the advice of his parents, he was allowed to go.

Brinkroeger's grocery, on Harrison street, was robbed one night last week and the officers are confident that young Moore was the chief in that raid. The police department is investigating and young Weinbrenner will be arrested as soon as found.

ONE OTHER CASE.
The only other case was that of Michael Ryan, arrested on Saturday for vagrancy. "I'm no vagrant, I'd have 'y' know, en' wen I cum here I had me own money in me pocket. I'm a plumber, sor, en' I jest wouldn't disturb a plumbing boss of a Satterdy to ask him fer a job."

"Could you get out of town in an hour if I let you go?" asked the judge.

"Could I? Watch me!" said Mr. Ryan, as he slid for the door.

Charles Voltz, of 524 Sutfenfield street, returned from an unsuccessful fishing expedition yesterday evening and about 10 o'clock lay down in Williams grove to rest up and think over the perversity of fish in some localities. He fell asleep and when he woke up he found that someone had stolen his hat, his pole and reel and his minnow bucket. If he hadn't eaten the bait the thieves might have stolen that too.

Carl Diether reports that some one stole his bicycle from in front of 1021 West Main street last evening.

On Saturday evening at 10 o'clock the patrol wagon was called to remove John Wall from 1729 South Calhoun street to St. Joseph hospital; he was seriously ill with typhoid fever.

A telephone message from Kalamazoo asks the police to look out for Hallie Metzler, who is wanted there. Hallie in a fit of absentmindedness carried away $80 of another fellow's money. A good description of the young fellow was given.

SPOONER SEES PRESIDENT

WISCONSIN MAN MAKES SLY
VISIT TO OYSTER BAY.

Washington, July 14.—It was learned here today that the reply of Secretary Root to the dispatch of Governor Taft has already been cabled to Rome. It is in the nature of instructions as to what rejoinder shall be made to the Vatican in answer to its first general reply to General Taft. These instructions to Governor Taft were prepared before Secretary Root left Washington, but were deemed of such importance that submission to the president was thought desirable. The position of the United States is unchanged and the instructions of Secretary Root, issued before General Taft went to Rome, are adhered to in every essential. The important point of these instructions were that the friars should be withdrawn and upon this question the administration remains firm. The rejoinder is a diplomatic document and couched in such language that there will be a continuation of the negotiations.

SPOONER SEES PRESIDENT.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 14.—Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, arrived at Sagamore Hill about half-past 10 o'clock last night and after a conference with the president and Secretary Root left for New York about midnight. Mr. Spooner successfully eluded newspaper men, not one of whom saw him. His conversation with the president related in part to the proposed purchase of the Panama Canal company's property. The senator had been invited by the department of justice to accompany one of the assistant attorney-generals to Paris to assist in the investigation of the title to the Panama Canal company's property. Whether he will go or not has not been decided so far as can be learned here. President Roosevelt, Secretary Root and the president's physician, Dr. Lambert, devoted themselves a greater part of the time today to recreation. Secretary Root will leave Sagamore Hill late this afternoon returning to New York on the naval yacht Kanawha. He will take a train immediately for Washington, arriving there tomorrow morning.

MAY RELIEVE BRAGG.

Washington, July 14.—The criticism of the Cuban people ascribed in a publication this morning to General Bragg, United States consul general at Havana, has not been officially brought to the attention of the state department, and until it is there will be no action in the case. Senator Quezada, the Cuban minister, spent the day in one of the suburban resorts and consequently did not call at the department. It will be for him, if any one, to make complaint. Then the natural course will be to call upon General Bragg for an explanation and if he admits the authenticity of the quotation, and the Cuban government so desires, he must be relieved.

Southampton, England July 14.—The United States armored cruiser Brooklyn, from Annapolis, July 1, having on board the remains of Lord Pauncefote late ambassador of Great Britain at Washington, arrived here this morning. The body was landed soon after 11 o'clock.

Full naval honors were paid to the remains of Lord Pauncefote. His widow followed the coffin from the warship to the train, which started for Newark-upon-Trent, where the funeral will take place tomorrow.

The ceremony of the transfer of the remains was impressive. One hundred and twenty-four bluejackets composed the bearer party. The coffin was taken between lines of seamen with arms reversed to a specially decorated railroad carriage. During the removal of the body the American and British bands played Chopin's funeral march.

Besides the widow and the family Rear Admiral Joseph B. Coghlan, the officers of the Brooklyn, the United States consul, John E. Hopley; a number of British naval officers and

BIG EXCURSION BUSINESS

HUNDREDS OF TRAVELERS ON ALL ROADS YESTERDAY.

The vacation season has arrived and Supt. J. B. McKim, of the Pennsylvania, has made a slight change in his operating force in order that the work will not be in the least affected by the absence of one or more men. Frank W. Byer, Mr. McKim's stenographer, will act as assistant trainmaster, and is now out with Mr. Patterson "learning the road." John G. Wolfmum, of the trainmaster's office, has taken Mr. Byer's place in Mr. McKim's office and William A. Potthoff, from Chief Clerk Learmonth's office, has taken Mr. Wolfmum's place. Commencing today the men in the superintendent's, the trainmaster's and the dispatcher's offices will be given leave of absence as they can be spared from the work.

TWO MILES IN 78 SECONDS.

A telegram from Chicago, published Saturday by The Sentinel, told of the phenomenal run made by the Twentieth Century limited on the Lake Shore road on that day, but omitted mention of a very interesting feature of the run. The best time was made between Edgerton and Butler, where two miles were covered in seventy-eight seconds. Engine 608, with Engineer James M. Calkins and Fireman C. A. Hollabaugh in the cab, pulled the train over the Toledo division.

FRESHNEY RESIGNS.

S. A. Freshney, for three years the Michigan representative of the Fort Wayne Electric company, with headquarters in Grand Rapids, has resigned to accept the position of general manager of the Muskegon Traction and Lighting company, of Muskegon. Mr. Freshney was manager of the old Muskegon Lighting company seven years before taking the position from which he now retires.

RACE PROGRAM COMPLETE.

The race feature of the field day sports of the Pennsylvania Employees' Athletic association was completed Saturday night and the best local flyers in the city will be the competitors in the several races. Included in the list of entries are the following well known horses: "Wayne Chief," owned by H. W. Tapp; "John N.," owned by William McKinnis; "Harry C.," owned by Charles MacDougal; "George Wood," owned by John T. Reed, and "Silver Piece," owned by R. E. Carnahan. Another big event of the day will be the ball game at League park between teams selected from the shopmen in this city and those at Allegheny, which will be called promptly at 9 o'clock and which will be open to the public free. Some of the very best professional ball players came from these shops and there are still others, just as good, there. The game will be one of the best ever witnessed in this city. Great interest is also being taken in the tug-of-war contests, in which two teams from this city and two from Allegheny have already entered. The Logansport shops have intimated a desire to get into this contest and negotiations with that end in view are now pending. The automobile race events have not been closed yet, but assurance is given that there will be plenty of entries and that this feature will be an attractive one.

THE EXCURSIONS.

Sunday travel was unusually heavy yesterday, all of the special excursion trains and all other trains that carried passengers at cheap rates being loaded about to their full capacity. Outgoing the Rome City party was the largest and incoming the Lake Erie and Western led in numbers. A canvass of the field elicited the following: From Connersville and other points on the Lake Erie, 560; from Findlay, over the C. & N. W. D., 165; from Dayton over the same road, 302; from Toledo over the Wabash, 275; from Detroit over the Wabash, 123. To Rome City, 663; to Toledo, 127; to Detroit, 71; to Cincinnati, over the Lake Erie and Western, 100. The latter train went out of Connersville with over 400 passengers for the Queen City. In addition to the foregoing, business on all regular trains was very good and the Sunday morning extra train from this city to Chicago, over the Pennsylvania, went into the Windy City with eleven cars well filled with passengers. The Nickel Plate also did a good business in carrying passengers to Chicago, Knox and elsewhere yesterday; its trains going into the former city with every seat occupied. C. A. Asterlin, traveling passenger agent of the Nickel Plate, has booked a number of excursions for the near future. He has arranged to have a special train to Sandusky and Cedar Point on July 23, leaving this city at 5:30 in the morning and going through to the destination without change of cars. Cedar Point is a favorite resort in Ohio and Mr. Asterlin anticipates a big crowd. July 27 he will run a special train to Payne, Ohio, the occasion being the dedication of a Catholic church. This train will leave at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. August 13, the Nickel Plate will carry the Sunday schools of Argos and Mentone, one party to Robinson park and the other to Rome City. This is an annual affair with these schools and as they have turned out big crowds on previous occasions, it is presumed that they will do so again.

A FIREMAN INJURED.

Pennsylvania Fireman John Longbaugh has gone to his old home in Dunkirk, Ohio, to remain until he recovers from injuries received in a most peculiar manner last night. In a mysterious way a signal torpedo that was in the cab exploded, burning and cutting the fireman's hands most painfully. Fireman W. J. Woodin, also of the Pittsburgh, has gone to his parents' home in Chicago to remain until he recovers from a very sore throat.

WONDERFUL INCREASE.

Manager J. J. Wood, of the Fort Wayne Electric company, said this morning that the first half of the year 1902 shows an increase of 40 per cent. over the corresponding period of the preceding year. He also stated that indications point to a maintenance of this ratio of increase throughout the year. This increase will appear all the more wonderful to the reader if he will stop to consider the fact that last year showed an equal increase over the business of the year 1900. An addition in the equipment and working force of the factory, for which purpose machinery has already been ordered, will enable the management to increase the output considerably.

COMINOAVISH RESIGNS.

Marshall Cominoavish, one of the best known mechanics in the city and for the past two years employed as a toolmaker in the Wabash shops, resigned this morning and Charles Stein, also a first-class mechanic, has taken the vacated position in the tool department. Mr. Cominoavish has no superior in the kind of work he is accustomed to and his services in that line are in demand. It is understood he has an offer of a better job and intends to accept. T. C. Evans, machinist apprentice; Albert Tracey, helper in the boiler shop, and Charles Mercer, also a helper in the same shop, quit this morning, the latter to take a position as brakeman on the Pittsburgh road.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Pennsylvania Conductor Rudolph Kabisch is sick and off duty. John Eick is a new man in the Wabash boiler shop, taking employment this morning. William Koelmeyer, of the Electric works, had his back sprained this morning and had to quit work. Machinist Philip Lordier, who was sick several days, reported for work at the Pittsburgh shops this morning. The Pennsylvania company ran an excursion from Cincinnati to Richmond yesterday and hauled a big crowd. Pierre Plantinga, of the Western Gas Construction company, is looking after some business in Chicago for the firm. After a week's absence on account of an injured foot, Machinist G. E. Cramer reported for duty at the Wabash shops this morning. Killian Vorndran, watchman at the Broadway gates of the Pennsylvania, will resume charge there tonight. He has been sick several days. Ed Jenney, a carpenter, and C. C. Raquet, a welder, of the Electric works, are off duty celebrating the advent of a son at each home. C. Monahan and J. J. Donley, formerly employed as brakemen on the Pittsburgh road, are now employed in the Wabash yards under Yardmaster Pinst. The Lake Erie and Western is receiving from mines located at Pittsburg, on the Evansville and Terre Haute road, fifteen car loads of coal a day. A number of Erie shopmen from Huntington will be in the city next Saturday to witness the ball game between the Broadway team and a team composed of Erie employees. Dennis O'Connors, foreman of the laborers in the Pittsburgh machine shop, resumed charge of the department this morning. He had been laid up two months with a lame leg. R. W. Shaw and J. Weber are sick and Peter Gnaul is off duty on account of private business. They are Pittsburgh shopmen. Arthur Repp, a knitter at the Wayne mills, has gone to the home of his parents, near Dunfee, Ind., to spend a two weeks' leave of absence. He has been in poor health for a few days.

Machinist and Mrs. Julius Kock, of Oliver street, had as a guest yesterday the latter's sister, Mrs. Comer, of Lima, O.

The wife and children of Janitor John Morning, of the Bass offices, went to Ohio last Saturday to spend two weeks with relatives.

Miss Mame Barry, daughter of Blacksmith Owen Barry, has gone to Crestline for a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends.

George Scott, of the Pittsburgh shop offices, is looking after some clerical work in Chicago, which will keep him in that city for a few days.

Air Brake Inspector Louis Beck, of the Pittsburgh, has gone to Newark, Ohio, to visit his brother, who is employed in the Baltimore and Ohio shops.

J. M. Breidenstein, an air brake inspector in the Pittsburgh round house, resumed work this morning after a two weeks' visit with his parents in Altoona, Pa.

Boiler Foreman James Murray, of the Wabash, has gone to Delray, Mich., on business for the company and Patrick Maley has charge of the shop in the meantime.

John Hall is a new name on the pay roll at the Bass' smith shop. Mr. Hall worked at that place several years ago, but resigned to work on the Pittsburgh coal docks.

Mrs. Stetter, wife of Louis Stetter, of the Pittsburgh tank shop, will leave the latter part of the week for New York, where she will visit friends for several weeks.

During the summer months the Ladies' society of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen will meet every other week, commencing the new arrangement next Wednesday afternoon.

L. Linker, of the Pittsburgh planing mills, has obtained a leave of absence from the shop for the purpose of going to the country to help his father during the harvest season.

E. S. Turner, who was sick, and Ernest Rehling, who had a finger injured, resumed their work in the Pittsburgh machine shop this morning, after an absence of a week or two.

George T. Ladd, traveling salesman for the Bass works, will take a two weeks' vacation and, tonight, with a party of friends, will leave for the fishing resorts in northern Michigan.

A slot weighing machine in the Union station at Indianapolis "took in" $128.12 during the month of June. In other words, 14,612 people were weighed by the machine during that month.

Consumers of anthracite coal will pay from $1 to $2 more per ton for the fuel the coming winter than they did last. Coal dealers assert that the wholesale price is a dollar in advance of that of last year.

Dr. J. M. Dinnen reports a slight improvement in the condition of Superintendent S. K. Blair, whose illness was mentioned by The Sentinel Saturday. The patient's ailment is due to the heat and to hard work.

Machinist and Mrs. P. J. Hess returned home Saturday. They had a most enjoyable trip through Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado. Mr. Hess resumed his duties in the Pittsburgh shops this morning.

William G. Fuelling, E. Reckweg and Moritz Zollinger, coveymakers resumed work at the Bass foundry this morning after an absence of two or three weeks on account of sickness. Mr. Fuelling had the smallpox.

Nickel Plate Passenger Conductor Charles Burgess is sick and off duty. Conductor George Harsh has taken charge of the former's trains. Brakeman Al Brestler, of the Nickel Plate, is also off duty on account of sickness.

The Nickel Plate is asked to pay $10,000 for the death of Finley Nuhn, who met death in the accident at Vermilion, Feb. 18, 1900. Suit is brought by Miss Caroline Nuhn, administratrix, in the common pleas court at Conneaut.

Captain H. M. Deihl left on Pennsylvania train No. 24 last evening for Allegheny, where he will be engaged a few days on work connected with the high speed air brake system recently adopted by the Pennsylvania company.

Last Friday the Bass company shipped two 150-horse power boilers to the Gladstone works of the Cleveland Cliffs Mining company. The order calls for three boilers and the third one will leave the shops some time this week.

Machinist Graves Maupin, for a year or two foreman of the lathe department of the Wabash shops, is now working in the shops of the Galveston, Houston and Henderson company under Master Mechanic William Paul. The latter was general foreman of the Wabash shop for a year.

The West Virginia Collecting agencies, which caused trouble for several Fort Wayne people and annoyance to the Pennsylvania and Nickel Plate local officials, is now operating in New Jersey, among employees of the Pennsylvania railroad. The agency was baffled by adverse legal decisions in the state of Pennsylvania.

The Fort Wayne Electric company

this morning sent a 1,000-light dynamo to the Indiana State Soldiers' home, Lafayette. This is only a part of the equipment of an extensive plant.

Mrs. A. W. Thompson, of 2900 South Harrison street, wife of the well known Pittsburgh shopman, has nearly recovered from the severe injury she received to her right hand on the Fourth by the premature explosion of a dynamite fire cracker.

Blacksmith David Murray and Machinist G. S. Cramer, who had a foot injured; Machinist E. B. Hughes, who had an eye hurt, and W. C. Keine, who had an arm cut by a piece of steel, reported for duty in the Wabash shops this morning.

Ernest Heuer, whose illness has been mentioned in these columns, is in a very critical condition. Last night it was feared he could not recover, and the improvement has been only slight. Mr. Heuer is assistant boiler foreman at the Wabash shops and a most popular man.

George Stetter, Jr., connected with the engineering department of the Lake Shore road, was instantly killed by falling while trying to get aboard a moving train at Stryker, Ohio, last Friday. He lived in Toledo and his duties occasionally brought him to Fort Wayne.

The family of Vice President J. J. Turner, of the Pennsylvania, will pass through the city this evening, en route to Macinac, where they will spend the hot summer. They will come in on Pennsylvania train No. 9 and leave on Grand Rapids train No. 3, traveling in their private car.

William Melkie, foreman of the Pennsylvania shops at Lancaster, has been appointed master mechanic of the Cincinnati and Muskingum Valley road, an office just created. This road has twenty locomotives and 304 cars, seventeen of them passenger cars. Mr. Melkie's headquarters are in Zanesville.

Foreman Strube, of the instrument department of the Fort Wayne Electric works, this morning added the following names to his list of workmen: Geo. Meyers and Albert Michener. The latter is the young man who was so badly injured by a gas explosion in a house on Hendricks street a couple of years ago.

Al Throckmorton, H. W. Brockman, Frank Stenger and J. Junk, who were sick; M. Schmidt, who had a wrist hurt on the 2nd inst.; Frank Ghiard, who was at Rome City a week; G. H. Heckman, who was on his farm in Adams county a week, and H. W. Koons, who was fishing several days, resumed their respective places in the Pittsburgh shops this morning.

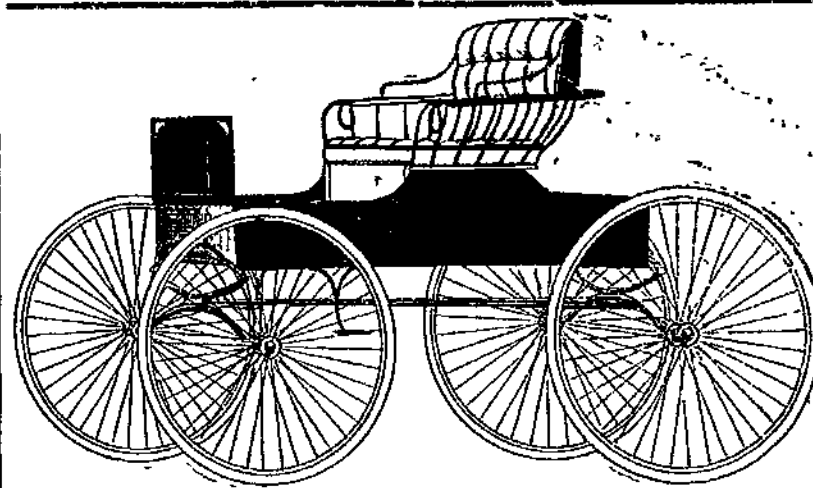

Jacob Elenbaugh, a machinist in the Wabash shops, is receiving more than one man's share of the ill of this life. Six weeks ago he lost a sister by death and this morning he was summoned to Huntington by a message which conveyed news of the death of his father, a prominent harnessmaker of Huntington. The funeral occurs tomorrow and out of respect to their shopmate several of the Wabash machinists will attend.

The only news feature today in the temporary distribution of the Pennsylvania office force, pending the removal of the building, is the selection of rooms at the Y. M. C. A. building for W. B. Blake, engineer of maintenance of way, and his assistants and clerks. The department will be moved this week. The trainmaster's force moved into the car prepared for them today.

Buffalo Bill's Wild West show paraphernalia and people were handled Saturday and today by the Grand Rapids and Indiana company. The show gave an exhibition at Grand Rapids Saturday and is exhibiting at Petoskey today. The show drew big crowds at both places and taxed the carrying capacity of the railways leading to those cities as they have not been taxed this summer.

Dr. E. F. Wagner, of the Pennsylvania relief department, and A. Fueller, city editor of the Staats Zeitung, who have been fishing at Lake George for ten days, will return home this evening. Dr. Wagner writes that during the only part of their sojourn at the resort Editor Fueller fell into the water twice in his efforts to land big fish, but he was rescued on each occasion without any damage other than to his feelings. Afterwards, Dr. Wagner says, Mr. Fueller was chained to his seat in the boat.

Personal injury insurance has become very common among railway and shop employees and the many men who have benefitted thereby proves that a policy is a good thing and well worth the amount necessary to maintain it. Of course the insurance companies receive more than they disburse, else they could not continue in business, but there are some instances where the insured draw more money from the insurance people than from the company that gives them employment. Daniel Beemer, an apprentice in the Monon shops at Lafayette, belongs to this class. Last Friday he had the bone of a finger broken and will be disabled for several weeks. This was the fourth time within twelve months that he had a bone broken. Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio employees have relief departments and do not patronize the other accident insurance companies to any great extent.

WILL COME HOME

GENERAL CHAFFEE RELIEVED
IN THE PHILIPPINES.

GEN. G. W. DAVIS SUCCEEDS

CHAFFEE TO COMMAND DEPARTMENT OF EAST.

CHAFFEE'S DISAPPROVAL WAS SEVERE.

Washington, July 14.—General Chaffee has been relieved of command in the Philippines and ordered to the command of the Department of the East, by an order issued today by Secretary Root. The order reads as follows:

"By direction of the president, Major General George W. Davis will relieve Major General Chaffee of the command of the Division of the Philippines September 30, 1902. On being relieved General Chaffee will, with his authorized aides, repair to Governor's Island, New York, and assume command of the Department of the East."

RECORD IN WALLER CASE.

Washington, July 14.—The incoming Philippine mail brings the full printed record of proceedings in the court martial cases of Major Lytleton W. T. Waller and Lieutenant John Horace Arthur Day, of the marine corps, growing out of the killing of some native bearers, or cargadores, in Samar. The record shows that Major Waller was acquitted of the charge of murder, but that General Chaffee, declaring that "there has been a miscarriage of justice in this case," disapproves the finding and the acquittal, with the exception that while Waller should not have been found guilty of murder, the court should have included a lesser offense. General Chaffee's endorsement is very strong, and he declares that with the exception of three who deserted, no overt acts were committed by the cargadores, but on the contrary "those sent to their death continued to the last to carry the arms and ammunition of the men after they were no longer able to bear them, and to render in their impassive way such services as deepens the conviction that, without their assistance, many of the marines who now survive would also have perished."

In the case of Lieutenant Day, who also was acquitted, General Chaffee disapproves the finding of the specification and charge of murder. He says that Lieutenant Day should have known that his commanding officer, Major Waller, had for three weeks been under a test of mental and physical endurance such as few men are called upon to undergo; that he was sick with fever, his temperature 105 and his body covered with painful sores. Day was the only officer not sick on duty and in the full possession of his faculties, and his plain duty was to counsel delay in the execution of the orders to kill the natives. General Chaffee refers to the order of Major Waller as "tautologous," and says that "it should have prompted him (Day) to a positive disobedience of the same."

Notwithstanding the disapproval the two officers were released, as they could not be tried twice for the same offense.

A few days ago General Chaffee was cabled that he could have either the command of the Department of the East or the Department of the Lakes if he desired to come home at this time. He was informed that the retirement of General Brooke afforded an opportunity of making either change he desired. The cablegram closed with a commendation by the secretary of war of General Chaffee's service in China and the Philippines. A reply was received Saturday from General Chaffee stating that he left the matter entirely with the department, but that he would prefer New York in case he was relieved in the Philippines. He suggested that September 30 would be a good date to make any change in the command of the Philippines. These dispatches were sent to President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, who consulted with Secretary Root, and the secretary directed the order to be issued relieving General Chaffee and placing General Davis in command.

General MacArthur has been asked to take command of the Department of the East when General Brooke returns until he can be relieved by General Chaffee.

ELECTION THIS EVENING.

The annual meeting of the Fort Wayne Commercial club will be held this evening, and among the matters to come up will be the annual election of directors and officers for the ensuing year.

at Peter Cortia's farm, southwest of the city, several weeks ago, will be held on Sunday, Aug. 3, and the program originally outlined will be carried out. The picnic was postponed on account of rain.

THE ILLINOIS DAMAGED.

PARKS DREW GREAT CROWDS

SUNDAY WEATHER BROUGHT OUT BIG ATTENDANCE.

Southwestern Opened Happy Hollow and Practically Depopulated Two Towns.

The weather Sunday was of a character that sent thousands of Fort Wayne people to the parks in search of comfort, and there were great throngs in all of the pleasure spots in and about Fort Wayne. Robison park is credited with having by far the largest Sunday crowd of the season, and the parks inside the city were all thronged with people during the afternoon and evening.

The Southwestern Interurban line did a tremendous business, the reports showing that a total of 3,684 passengers were carried yesterday. Happy Hollow, the new pleasure spot west of Huntington, was formally opened with a band concert, and the small park was densely packed with people during the entire day. Car service was opened to Lagro, and the people of this town, as well as those of Andrews, practically deserted the places for the day.

ABOUT THE COURT HOUSE.

Judge Aiken, in the superior court, granted three divorces this morning, as follows:

Loa A. Galloway from David H. Galloway and the custody of one child. The complaint was filed this morning and alleged abuse. The parties were married in 1889 and separated only today.

Charles T. Allen was divorced from Clara Allen, this complaint also being filed today.

Celia Etchey was divorced from Edward Etchey and the complaint alleged that they had been married in April of this year and that the defendant had been abusive.

Anna Bloomhuff was cited to appear a bill of particulars in her case for damages against Catherine Boite, the bill to be presented within three days.

August Druodick was given a judgment against J. J. Eme and Victor Saloot on a note for $187.11.

In the divorce case of Frank A. Aman vs. Rose E. Aman, the plaintiff was ordered to pay the defendant $25 as a temporary allowance.

Arguments for a new trial of the Hively vs. the City Trucking company were heard this afternoon by Judge Aiken.

Elmer Gutscher has commenced action against Michael Gutscher to establish a trust and quiet title.

Alma Monnock, who has been in the charge of the sheriff for over a month, was today received at the feeble minded home.

Deputy Sheriff Ryan is back at his post, after a two weeks' vacation.

Peter A. Moran sues Pauline Weincke for possession of real estate and to quiet title.

ESTABLISHED 1833.

FORT WAYNE, IND. MONDAY, JULY 14, 1902.

PRICE TWO CENTS

STILL FAR APART

NO SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT IN FREIGHT MEN'S STRIKE.

RAILWAYS BALK ON QUESTION OF WAGES.

NO FREIGHT IS BEING MOVED

LOSERS TO MERCHANTS BECOME GIGANTIC.

Chicago, July 14.—At 1:30 p. m. President Curran, of the freight handlers, gave out a statement in which he said:

"All of the conferences today have failed, although we sent committees of their own men to the managers as they had requested. Hereafter, the managers will have to confer with officials of the union. If they want to waste $100,000 a day over a question of a half-cent increase in wages we will let them try it."

MANAGERS' MEETING.

Previous to meeting the committees the railroad managers and superintendents held a meeting among themselves. They remained of the mind that 17c is a proper compromise between the 16c paid and the 18c asked originally by the truckers. This unanimity of opinion among the managers is taken in explanation of the failure of the conferences which followed. Of the managers' meeting F. A. Delano, of the Burlington, said:

"We discussed the situation at length. We talked tentatively of the wage problem. We consider that we have performed our full duty to the public. Our freight houses are manned and ready to do business. If the men want to go back to work they can do so. It is up to the people who have goods to ship to get them to the freight houses. That is the way we look at the situation."

The conferences between committees of the men and the railroad managers generally came to naught. Even when President Curran told the committees to accept 17c, a modification of his earlier instructions, no progress was made.

ONE VIEW OF IT.

A man familiar with the employers' side of the fight said: "The situation among the railroads is about this: The western roads are awaiting word for the most part and won't budge an inch, the eastern people generally want more time to consider. I suppose this is because they have to do considerable conferring with New York, where most of them have their headquarters. The railroads claim to have enough men in their warehouses to handle all business brought to them. They stand to lose considerable, but it is nothing to what Chicago wholesalers are losing."

TWENTY THOUSAND IDLE.

Chicago, July 14.—The second week of the freight handlers' strike began today with 20,000 men idle and shipping at a standstill. The railroad warehouses, ordinarily a hive of industry, were almost as quiet as they were yesterday, so far as regular business was concerned. At a distance from each warehouse was a company of pickets posted to keep freight from entering or leaving the sheds. Near the depots were guards of police, on duty to protect the men in the warehouses and to quell any disturbances which might arise.

Gangs of non-union men brought into the city to take the places of the strikers lounged about the warehouses or in their cars with scarcely anything to do.

LITTLE HOPE OF PEACE.

President Curran, of the freight handlers' union, appointed committees to visit the various railroads. But his proposition had reverted to the original one, further than ever from the ideas of the railroad managers, and no hope was expressed that a settlement would be made today, or even this week. The line between the opposing parties was plainly drawn today and no move of either side was made to cross it.

Wholesale houses made practically no attempt to send out freight or to receive it. These big establishments were all but closed down. The strike has cost them hundreds of thousands of dollars already and they stand to lose millions should the conditions which obtained this morning continue. The loss in wages to the striking freight handlers and their sympathizers, the teamsters, to the railroads and other lines of business, is roughly estimated at considerably over $1,000,000 a day. The situation is admittedly very grave.

WATER STREET DEAD.

Occasionally merchants on South Water street declared that usually animal market dead. In times of commercial panic this street is one of the most congested in the world. Today in front of many of the stores there was not a wagon and scarcely a crate, box or barrel of produce. Some had a few barrels brought by boat from Michigan and Wisconsin, but these were about the only fresh arrivals. Thirty cars of highly perishable stuff was reported on the tracks, while many more cars containing commodities which will last a few days longer lay abandoned. Of today's arrivals by rail only three car loads were cared for promptly. These contained live poultry. It was said that the humane society would not allow them to perish and a permit was secured to take them to South Water street. One wholesaler had a car load of Georgia peaches on sale. The peaches came in Saturday by rail, but the teamsters refused to haul anything from the railroads. The dealer thereupon shipped the car around the lake to St. Joseph, Mich., where the consignment was transferred to a boat and reached here this morning.

HUMANE OFFICER AIDED.

In securing the release of the chickens an agent of the humane society was brought into use. He went to President Curran, accompanied by representatives of the firms to whom the fowls had been shipped, and declared that the chickens could not be allowed to remain cooped up to starve.

"I don't want 'em to starve any more'n you do," replied the little man who is at the head of one of Chicago's worst strikes. He thereupon issued an order permitting the removal of the feathered freight.

John G. Shortall, president of the humane society, declared that no "live" shipments should be allowed to suffer, no matter how long the strike lasted.

President Field, of the Knickerbocker ice company, stated today that the ice men were hauling ice everywhere, including the railway depots and to cars. This was denied by some of the strikers.

HAD A STIRLING TIME.

A driver in a light wagon, who succeeded in delivering two small packages to the Santa Fe, had a stirring time of it. When it became apparent to the striking pickets that he was headed for the warehouse, they made a rush for him. A squad of policemen came to the rescue and the driver reached the warehouse in safety. "Better come inside where you'll be safe," one of the union freight handlers advised. Several hours later the wagon still stood empty where the driver had left it. The latter remained in the warehouse, while pickets guarded every avenue of escape. So far as could be learned this driver's two packages were the only ones delivered during the forenoon to any depot.

Much fruit and vegetables which came in yesterday was reshipped last night, although it is said without adequate refrigeration. Vegetable and fruit peddlers succeeded in getting partial supplies from the depots during the day, but it was only after much trouble with the pickets and assistance from the police. Tons of half spoiled stuff was given to poor people who waited at nearly all the depots in crowds, each one carrying a basket or bag.

Despite the assertion of President Field, of the Knickerbocker ice company, that ice was going to the freight house, pickets asserted that not one cake of ice had passed through their lines this forenoon.

HARRY HARRISON VERY ILL.

Harry Harrison, proprietor of Spring Beach hotel, Rome City, is critically ill from heart trouble, and although his condition was slightly improved last night, he is still a very sick man. Mr. Harrison is very well known by Fort Wayne people who visit Rome City and his many friends will be pained to hear of his illness. Mr. Harrison was taken sick Saturday night and for a time it was thought that he could not recover.

TRAIN HELD UP.

Salida, Colo., July 14.—A report was received here shortly before noon today to the effect that the Denver and Rio Grande narrow gauge passenger train, which left here early last night, was held up and robbed by several men near Sargents, west of Marshall pass. Two safes in the express were blown, but express officials say no plunder was secured from them. The passengers were lined up alongside the track and relieved of their valuables.

Mrs. H. T. Hogan is en route to Denver, Col., where she will represent the local auxiliary to the Elbowmen at the annual convention. Mr. Hogan accompanied her on the journey as far as Chicago.

SALISBURY IS OUT

FROM OFFICE.

HON. A. J. BALFOUR SUCCEEDS

RETIREMENT MEANS POWER
FOR CHAMBERLAIN.

London, July 14.—Following fast upon the surprise caused last evening by the announcement that Lord Salisbury, the premier, had resigned last Friday and that Hon. A. J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury, had accepted the prime ministry, came the almost greater surprise today when it was made known that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, chancellor of the exchequer, had tendered his resignation.

Perhaps never has a change of premiership been effected with so little dislocation to business, either public or private, as accompanied the transfer of the seals of office from Lord Salisbury to A. J. Balfour.

HAD NO EFFECT.

The occurrence had no effect whatever on the stock exchange. The only other change in the cabinet thus far announced is the chancellorship of the exchequer, though others are foreshadowed. Mr. Balfour, in addressing the first meeting of his followers at the foreign office this afternoon, informed them that he could not count on the continued assistance of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, but he could count on the latter's good wishes.

The public showed little interest in the party meeting, which was summoned for noon. The new premier, when he entered the conference room of the foreign office, accompanied by the duke of Devonshire, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Lord Londonderry and others, received quite an ovation.

MR. BALFOUR SPEAKS.

When Mr. Balfour stood to address the meeting all again stood up and cheered the new chief. Mr. Balfour referred to the loss of the services of the chief who for nearly fifty years had been engaged in active political life. No one, he said, would grudge him his well-earned repose, though his loss was irreparable.

"I do not flatter myself," proceeded the premier, "that the gap he has left can be filled. But the place he has left must be occupied and it is because the king has desired me to do my best to take that position that I have asked you to meet me today. I have accepted a great task and a heavy responsibility, certainly from no overweening belief in my own capacity, but because I am sure, or at least have every reason to believe, that in attempting to carry on this work I will have the most important qualification a leader can have, namely, regard for and confidence in those with whom he works."

EXPECTS CO-OPERATION.

"I have not had the opportunity before of consulting you, but I have, of course, consulted with those with whom I have been working in the cabinet these many years, and if the kindness you are prepared to extend to me is at all equal to the kindness they have extended me, then indeed the task, or difficulties I ought perhaps to say, of the task before me are greatly mitigated. I cannot now promise myself that I shall have the continued assistance of all my colleagues. One of the most important of them, with whom I have been associated all my political life, and who has occupied and deserves to occupy the highest post in the house of commons and state, has told me that I cannot count on his further assistance. I mean the chancellor of the exchequer. But though I grieve to say I cannot count with any assurance on his further assistance, I can count with absolute confidence on his good wishes in the labors that are before us."

FOLLOWS SALISBURY.

After a warm tribute to Lord Salisbury by the duke of Devonshire, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach rose and said there was no one whom he would have more gladly and more readily have accepted as leader of the party than the man he had followed as leader for more than seven years. But Lord Salisbury's retirement was a break with the traditions of his past political life. Two years ago he had begged for personal and not for political reasons to be relieved from office; but he had consented at Lord Salisbury's instance to retain it to the end of the war. He now felt that the moment had come when such poor services as he could render could not longer be necessary to the country.

There were younger men who would do the work at least as well as he had been able to do it.

CHAMBERLAIN'S GOOD WISHES.

J. Austen Chamberlain, financial secretary to the treasury, said his father wished him to say how greatly disappointed he was at the fact that he could not be present to welcome Mr. Balfour to the leadership and say with pride and pleasure he would give all the assistance in his power.

Turning toward Mr. Balfour the speaker continued: "My father bids me to say to you, Mr. Balfour, that you will find in him a colleague equally attached to you by private friendship and public regard, and that in offering you his support he feels he may speak also in the name of the whole liberal unionist party of the house of commons."

After Mr. Chamberlain had delivered his message the conference dispersed.

CAUSED GREAT SURPRISE.

The resignation of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach caused intense surprise. It was generally taken to be almost more important than Lord Salisbury's, and was regarded in some quarters as being directly due to the more important voice which Mr. Chamberlain will have in the new cabinet.

John Redmond, leader of the Irish party in the house of commons, said to a representative of the Associated Press:

"It will have a more immediate and material result than Lord Salisbury's retirement. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach was an excellent check on Chamberlain, who is now practically all powerful."

"I do not regard the general political situation as being at all changed by Lord Salisbury's disappearance from active life."

Several other changes are likely to occur, including the retirement of Earl Cadogan, the lord lieutenant of Ireland, and the elevation of George Wyndham, the chief secretary for Ireland, to a seat in the cabinet.

Speculation is already rife as to who will be Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's successor. The name of E. W. Hanbury, president of the board of agriculture, is frequently mentioned.

RESIGNATION OF PREMIER.

London, July 14.—The fact of the resignation of the premiership of Great Britain by Lord Salisbury, as foreshadowed in recent dispatches, was officially given out last evening. The prime minister laid down the responsibility of his office July 11. Within twenty-four hours his majesty elevated A. J. Balfour, the government chief representative in the house of commons, to the position of premier.

While it was expected in official and political circles that Lord Salisbury's retirement would be coincident with the coronation of King Edward, it was scarcely looked for prior to that event. Consequently about the only surprise expressed as the news spread through London concerned the date, rather than the fact, of the resignation. The real interest was not so much in reference to Lord Salisbury's withdrawal as it was in the appointment of his successor.

The liveliest speculation is rife as to the personnel of the new cabinet. The most discussed feature of the pending changes is the position of Mr. Chamberlain (the colonial secretary), who, in many quarters, has been regarded as the most promising candidate for the premiership.

It is learned that prior to the acceptance of his new office, Mr. Balfour first had an interview with Mr. Chamberlain and then consulted with his other cabinet assistants. This is regarded as assurance that the future relative positions of Messrs. Balfour and Chamberlain will be satisfactory to both. Mr. Chamberlain's friends say he always recognized the revision of the premiership to be Mr. Balfour's right as government leader in the house of commons.

SALISBURY'S REASONS.

As to Lord Salisbury's withdrawal, the main reason is considered by practically all the best-informed persons to have been simply a desire for a quiet life on the part of a man advanced in years, whose activities have been unusual and whose scientific tastes predispose him to study and seclusion. That the retired premier's health has failed to some extent is undeniable, but this is not more than, perhaps, is to be expected in a man of his years, and the close of the war in South Africa and the return of the commanding general there is considered to be an appropriate time for his withdrawal.

STILL A MYSTERY

NO NEW DETAILS OF SUDDEN
DEATH AT GRAND RAPIDS.

A FORT WAYNE SPIRITUALIST
AND CLAIRVOYANT.

FAMILY GETS NO RESPONSE

BEEN ACCIDENTAL.

No additional information has reached Fort Wayne today concerning the identity of the stranger who died suddenly Sunday afternoon in the American hotel at Grand Rapids, and who is presumed to have been Edwin E. Parker, a spiritualist lecturer, clairvoyant and palmist, whose home is in Fort Wayne.

Repeated telegrams sent today from the Parker home, at 413 Madison street, to personal friends in Grand Rapids, as well as to the hotel management, asking for further details, had elicited no reply up to 8 o'clock this afternoon, and the members of the family are nearly prostrated by the distressing news and the suspense which has followed the delay in completing the identification.

It is stated at the Parker home that the telegraphed description of the dead man corresponds almost minutely to that of Mr. Parker, and while they of course cling to some slight measure of hope that there has been a mistake, Mrs. Parker and her daughters are almost convinced that the dead man is their husband and father.

The family, however, admit the idea that the case could have been one of suicide, for they say Mr. Parker would never have ended his life intentionally. It is related, however, that for some years Mr. Parker has suffered intensely at intervals from neuralgia and that he was occasionally compelled to resort to the use of remedies to ease the pain. It is regarded as probable that an overdose may have been taken unintentionally and that the death was purely accidental.

Information from Grand Rapids is to the effect that the death was undoubtedly due to morphine poisoning, though whether taken with suicidal intent or not is not yet shown. The stranger reached the American hotel Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, and in a casual conversation with a gentleman there told him he was about to hold meetings near Mill Creek, where a spiritualistic camp-meeting is in progress.

He went to bed, leaving a call for 10 o'clock, but at that hour did not respond to a rap upon his door. When at 4 o'clock a more vigorous rapping at his room did not arouse the man, the door was forced open. He lay upon the bed, only partially conscious and apparently suffering great agony. All efforts to revive him failed, and death ensued at 5 o'clock.

The dead man is about five feet eight inches tall, gray mustache and gray hair, and is quite bald. He wore black trousers, black and gray striped coat and vest, and the only mark upon the clothing are the letters "E. C. P." on the shirt. He also wore a G. A. R. button, and is apparently about 60 years of age.

FOUND SOME ADDRESSES.

In the pockets of the dead man were found several slips of paper on which messages and addresses were written. One of these was addressed to "Mate," 536 North Ottawa street, Grand Rapids, and said: "Mate, this is Bradley, my friend." It was unsigned. Mrs. Mattie Pierson, who lives at the above number in Grand Rapids, visited the undertaking rooms to which the remains were taken, but was unable to identify the dead man or shed any light upon the meaning of the note.

In a notebook in the pockets of the dead man was the address of Mrs. J. J. Gratton, 1613 North Wells street, Fort Wayne, with the statement: "I give Mr. Parker permission while away to look in the crystal for me. Kill anything you can see for me." When seen last evening Mrs. Gratton stated that she had consulted the clairvoyant a short time ago, had given him a slip of paper bearing her address, and had also delegated to him authority to "look in the crystal for her," which she explained was a form of clairvoyant practice to obtain knowledge of the future.

Several slips of paper in the pockets of the dead man bore questions such as would naturally write on a visit to a clairvoyant. Among them were "Will I get a better job and wages?" "Will I make a success in

Mr. Parker, who resided with his wife and two daughters at 413 Madison street, left Fort Wayne Thursday for Briggs park, near Grand Rapids, where a spiritualistic camp-meeting is in progress. He had leased a cottage there and expected to spend the summer in the work. His daughter, Miss Mary, was to have joined him this week. The family state that he was apparently in good health and in the best of spirits when he left home, and they received a letter from him on Saturday. It was written at the camp ground, told of having leased a pretty cottage, meeting a large number of prominent mediums from various parts of the country, and expressed a delighted enthusiasm over the outlook for the session. It stated also that he would write them again on Sunday. The family removed to Fort Wayne from Richmond about two years ago. Mr. Parker was a spiritualistic lecturer and often conducted the services of the local organization of spiritualists. He was also a clairvoyant and palmist, and had an extensive clientele in this city.

MINERS RESUME WORK IN THE CAMBRIA SHAFTS.

Klondike Department, Where Explosion Occurred, is Being Cleared and Explored.

Johnstown, Pa., July 14.—Operations were today started in every section of the Rolling Mills mine of the Cambria Steel company, except the Klondike, where the fatal explosion of Thursday occurred. A majority of the fifty men on hand when the first trip went into the mine, were foreigners. They did not seem to have the least hesitation in re-entering the mine, where so many of their fellow countrymen lost their lives. It was just seven o'clock when the men started in the slope and in a short time they were at work cleaning up the rooms. This work will take some time and it is thought it will be after noon before the first run of coal can be brought out of the mine.

A full force of men is expected to be at work before night, with the exception of the Klondike, where a large force of men are employed clearing up the falls and repelling the brattices that were blown down. When this is completed, the mine inspectors will make an investigation before it can be opened again for operation.

The inquest will probably not be held before next Thursday. No more bodies were brought out or have been discovered and the mine has apparently been explored fully. Nevertheless some miners claim that many bodies will still be found therein.

A surveying party went into the mine this morning to look over the entire mine and make a last search for any bodies that may be in there. They probably will be in all day and when they complete their work the exploration of the mine will be finished.

The officials at the mine office say that the only place where any may be found hereafter is in some of the abandoned workings where some of the men might have run in trying to escape from the explosion. The tracks in some places are still covered with rubbish and it is possible that some bodies may be found under this when it is cleared up.

With the resumption of work in the mine today, following the burial of all but a few of the dead yesterday, the intense strain has relaxed, excitement is dying out and everyday affairs are beginning to resume their normal course.

WINDWARD SAILS TODAY.

New York, July 14.—The Peary relief ship Windward will begin her voyage to the Arctic regions late this afternoon. The work of taking on stores has proceeded rapidly today and it is believed that nothing will now interfere with her scheduled departure. The Windward will stop first at Portland, Me., and then at Sydney, where Mrs. Peary and her daughter will be taken aboard.

Clyde Rich, a young man residing three miles southwest of the city, was painfully injured in a fall from a hayrack on Sunday. He was severely bruised about the shoulders and back, but will recover.

Miss Dora Sander, of Grand street, has returned from Upper Sandusky, Ohio, where she has been visiting friends for six weeks.

ANNOUNCING INTENTION OF ENDING HIS LIFE.

LEWIS B. FRETZ IS MISSING

DISAPPEARED EARLY SATUR-DAY MORNING.

SEARCH HAS BEEN FRUITLESS

DEPENDENT OVER DEATH OF HIS WIFE.

Wrought up to a high nervous pitch by worry over the recent death of his wife, Lewis B. Fretz left a message announcing his intention of ending his life and then mysteriously disappeared. Despite the most energetic search, nobody has been able to get trace of the missing man since he left his room at the home of W. M. Davis, 1384 McClellan street, at an early hour Saturday morning.

Fretz is a gifted young man, well known in newspaper circles of northern Indiana, and a writer of more than ordinary ability. He has been active in fraternal circles, and has written a number of works upon topics of this character. Until recently he had been for some time the publisher of the Garrett Herald.

A few months ago his young wife died. It was the second affliction of this character to fall upon him, and the blow was a heavy one. He became very despondent, gave up newspaper work and came to Fort Wayne for the purpose of doing literary work along the line of his former publications. One of these volumes was "Denny, the Pythian of Syracuse," and it was his purpose to considerably enlarge this work. Friends have noticed for some time his growing despondency and he worried almost constantly over his troubles. Finally they became unbearable. He wrote a lengthy letter in which he stated that before the night was found he would be in the land of the unknown.

Leaving his bank book, insurance policies and other valuables, which he directed should be given to a Miss Birch, a young lady who has been assisting him in his literary work, he arose about 3:30 o'clock Saturday morning and left the house on McClellan street. Neither search in the city nor telephone inquiries to surrounding towns where Fretz was acquainted, have succeeded in getting a trace of the young man. Friends from Waterloo are in the city today to join in the search for the missing man.

DEATH OF AN ARCHBISHOP

PATRICK A. FECHAN, OF CHICA-GO, PASSES AWAY.

Succumbs to Illness of More Than

Year's Duration—Twenty-Two Years at Post.

Chicago, July 14.—Archbishop Patrick A. Fechan, for twenty-two years in charge of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago, died Saturday afternoon after a long illness. For more than a year the archbishop has been in poor health. Much of his time has been passed in the quiet of his country home at Fechanville, and for months all executive business of the church has been out of his hands. Death was due to heart trouble to which the archbishop had been subject.

Archbishop Fechan was born in County Tipperary, Ireland, in 1839. He had been archbishop of the archdiocese of Chicago since Sept. 10, 1880. He had been in America since 1852 and a leader in the Catholic priesthood of the west for forty-six years.

In 1865 he was made bishop of Nashville. He succeeded Bishop Foley here.

MULDOON ADMINISTRATION.

Chicago, July 14.—Bishop Muldoon was today appointed administrator of the archdiocese of Chicago until a successor to the late Archbishop Fechan shall be named. Bishop Spaulding, of Peoria, made the appointment.

William E. Quinn, superintendent of the sewer department of the city of Chicago, is the guest of his parents on West DuSable street.

Miss Mrs. Craig, of Hicknell, Ind., is visiting friends in Fort Wayne. Miss Hicknell is assistant editor of the Hicknell News, published by her father.

SUCCESSOR TO WU

SIR LIANG CHEN TUNG GIVEN
WASHINGTON POST.

NEW MINISTER IS ABLE AND MODEST, IT IS SAID.

HE WAS EDUCATED AT YALE

MR. WU WILL CODIFY LAWS OF
THE EMPIRE.

Peking, July 14.—Sir Liang Chen Tung, secretary of the Chinese embassy to the coronation of King Edward, was appointed Chinese minister to the United States yesterday.
 New ministers to Russia, France and Italy also have been named. The selections for these posts show that the dowager empress continues to regard the diplomatic service as unimportant. None of the appointees is of higher than the Blue Bottom rank and none has held any important office. All of them except Liang Chen Tung are unknown to the foreign community.
 Liang Chen Tung's appointment pleases the Americans here. The newly appointed diplomat is a graduate of Yale university and is able, dignified and honest. He is the first of the body of students sent to America in the '70's to receive recognition for their accomplishments. The Chinese officials have disliked them because of their progressive views.

MINISTER WU NOT SURPRISED.

Washington, July 14.—Mr. Wu, the Chinese minister at Washington, was not surprised to hear of the appointment of a successor to himself, as he has been expecting an announcement of this character for some time. He had received notice that his services would be required in another capacity and for this reason has been prepared to hear of the naming of his successor at any time.
 Sir Liang Chen Tung, the newly appointed minister, is a comparatively young man, being only a little over 40 years of age. Like the present minister, he is said to be a man of progressive ideas, whose opinions have been formed from his education, which was received partly in the United States, from his former connection with the Chinese embassy here and from his contact with European civilization in the course of several special missions.

SENT TO AMERICA TO STUDY.

He was in one of the four parties of Chinese boys who were sent to the United States twenty years ago to complete their education. The idea of the Chinese government was to have each boy spend fifteen years in this country—ten years in the preparatory schools and the remainder in the universities. Before Chen had completed his course, however, the plan was discontinued and he returned home.

While Chang was minister to Washington some years ago Tung served as interpreter during the three years of his incumbency; later he was secretary of a special mission sent to Japan, and when the jubilee of Queen Victoria was celebrated he filled a similar position in the embassy which went to London. It was from his connection with the latter mission that he obtained his knighthood and received the title of sir.

Last year, when China dispatched a special mission to Germany to make formal apologies for the murder of Baron von Ketteler, Tung was a member of the party.

Minister Wu has not been advised officially of the appointment of his successor.

WU CORDIALLY LIKED HERE.

The retiring minister, Mr. Wu, has been at this capital since April, 1897. His relations with the administrations of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt have been of a most cordial character.
 The ordinary term of ministers in the Chinese diplomatic service is three years and they are not reappointed. Mr. Wu's term of service, however, has been continued indefinitely from time to time. He was of great assistance to his government during the "boxer" troubles.

Several months ago he was appointed a member of the commission to codify the existing Chinese laws and prepare a set of modern laws for his country, and it is this business which in all probability the Chinese government has in store for him when he returns to his native land.
 Mr. Wu also is minister to Spain and Peru.

MURDERS HIS WIFE.

Evansville, Ind., July 14.—John Feniger, a coal miner, shot and killed his wife yesterday morning and then shot himself in the mouth, inflicting a wound that may prove fatal. He had been separated from his wife for some time and became enraged at her because she would not return to him. The wound was in the left temple and death was instantaneous. Feniger is forty-two years old and has been troublesome to the police for a number of years. He was under the influence of liquor when he committed the crime. The tragedy was enacted within a short distance of Feniger's home. Feniger is still unconscious at a local hospital and the physicians who are in charge of him say he has only one chance in a hundred to recover. He was recently arrested for assaulting an officer and spent several weeks in jail. The officers believe he is insane and have been keeping a close watch on him for the past several weeks.

ANCIENT CAMPANILE IN RUINS

Historic Bell Tower of St. Mark's is Heap of Crumbling Debris—Was to be Repaired.

Venice, Italy, July 14.—The Campanile, (detached bell tower) of St. Mark's church, 98 metres high, collapsed at 10:45 this morning and fell with a great crash into the piazza.
 The Campanile, which was entirely detached from the cathedral, collapsed where it stood and is now a heap of ruins. The cathedral and palace of the dogs are quite safe, but a corner of the royal palace was damaged. Repairs on the Campanile were to have been commenced today. It is feared there was some loss of life.

The ruins are surrounded by a cordon of troops.
 The first intimation of danger was the sudden appearance yesterday of a longitudinal crack in the corner of the wall facing the clock tower and the breaking of two windows. A concert which had been arranged to be held on the piazza yesterday evening was stopped by order of the prefect, with the object of preventing a concourse of people.

The ruins are piled up to a height of 100 feet and the Piazza di San Marco and the adjoining squares are covered with debris and dust. Some damage was done to the Sansovino Loggia, or vestibule, on the east side of the Campanile.

Closer investigation shows that the Campanile in falling carried away the Sansovino loggia and the library of the royal palace. Premontory signs of the collapse allowed a partial clearance of the piazza and there were no fatalities, but a few persons were injured. The disaster caused an immense sensation. The town and communal councils have been summoned to meet this evening.

The Campanile stood opposite the church, or cathedral of St. Mark's. It was founded in 888, restored in 1329, provided with a marble top in 1417 and in 1517 was crowned with the figure of an angel nearly 16 feet high. The loggia or vestibule, on the east side of the Campanile was once a rendezvous of the Nobili and afterwards a waiting room for the guards during the sessions of the great council. There were bronze statues of Peace, Apollo, Mercury and Pallas on the coping of the Campanile and its fine bronze doors were much admired. At the top of the tower a fire watchman, with a telescope, was continually stationed.

HAUSBACH-HUBER.

Miss Glenna Huber, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Huber, was united in marriage to Edward J. Hausbach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hausbach, at St. Patrick's Catholic church Wednesday, Rev. J. F. Delaney officiating. The bride was attired in a becoming gown of white organdie embroidered and wore a picture hat of white shirred mull and white violets. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses, a white prayer book and pearl rosary. Her cousin, Miss Emma Cox, was bridesmaid and wore a dainty dress of French lawn and a hat of white mull trimmed with roses. She carried a spray of pink carnations. Roy Hausbach, brother of the groom, was best man. A wedding breakfast was served afterward at the groom's home, the rooms being beautifully decorated with palms, roses, carnations, sweet peas and amaranth. The bride's table was done in pink and white, pink ribbons being draped from the chandelier to each corner of the table, where the ends were fastened with bouquets of sweet peas. A triple-plated mirror, surrounded by a wreath of amaranth, occupied the center of the table and upon the mirror stood a large basket made of white blossoms holding sweet peas and bride's roses. In the evening at 7 there was a reception, which was attended by over 200 guests. Refreshments were served at 11. Mr. and Mrs. Hausbach received a large number of handsome gifts.

S. A. Burrows leaves this week for his old home at Franklin, O., where he will spend some weeks attending the Chautauque in session there.

RETURNS HOME FROM JAPAN

MISS GRACE GLENN ARRIVED
SATURDAY NIGHT.

Has Been a Missionary in Japan
 Four Years and is Home on Account of Ill Health.

Miss Grace Glenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Glenn, of 310 West DeWald street, arrived home Saturday evening after a four years' sojourn in Japan. Miss Glenn was met in New York by her parents and the Misses Bessie and Carrie Glenn and Thomas B. Wright, and the party returned home with her, excepting Mr. Wright, who will visit in the east for a few weeks.

Miss Glenn started for home April 11, coming by way of the Suez canal and visiting several of the Asiatic and European countries on the way. She spent a month in England, sailing from London on July 23, and arriving in New York July 20, after an unusually rough passage.

About a year ago Miss Glenn was taken sick, but continued her work until the condition of her health made it imperative for her to seek a change of climate, and she was granted an eighteen months' vacation. She expects to remain in this city until October, when she will make a lecture tour through this part of the country in the interest of Japanese missions.

Miss Glenn is one of the instructors in a seminary for Japanese girls in Kanazawa, where fifty pupils are being educated. The seminary is a branch of Oxford college and was founded about seventeen years ago. It is conducted along the same lines as Oxford college and the course of study is very similar. Miss Glenn is very enthusiastic on the subject of Christian work in Japan and she talked very entertainingly to a Sentinel reporter this morning concerning the progress being made by missionaries in that country.

"Japan is very appropriately called the 'France of the orient,'" said Miss Glenn. "The Japanese are courteous, vivacious, quick to adopt new ideas and they are among the most patriotic people of the world." Miss Glenn talked at length about the Japanese and their country and showed the reporter part of a large collection of Japanese curios, consisting of curiously inscribed china, toys made of tortoise shell and bric-a-brac of every description.

"The Christian church," said Miss Glenn, "is doing a great work in Japan, and although we have less than half enough missionaries to cover the field even sparsely, the work is being carried on in a spirit that will be productive of great results in a few years. Fifteen years ago, when Japan at first decided to adopt western civilization, it was also decided to adopt the Christian religion, but the masses could not adapt themselves to the new order of things in such a hurry and the great outward manifestation of Christianity which was made at that time was followed by a reaction that gave the church a setback for years. It was a good thing for the Christian church in several respects, for only those few who had become earnest Christians remained steadfast, and they formed a nucleus of a strong Christian organization in Japan. Since then the spread of Christianity has been slow, but the growth has been steady."

"A great many students in the Japanese universities have become Christians, and it is through these that the missionaries expect to eventually Christianize Japan. The student body is largely composed of the middle and upper classes, and when these two divisions of Japanese society adopt Christianity the lower classes will follow their example."

"The Young Men's Christian association is doing a great work in Japan and there are a number of branches in the larger cities. They are principally among the college students and the membership is very large. There are several Christians in the governing bodies, the head of the lower house being one of the leading Christian workers of the country."

Kanazawa, the city in which Miss Glenn's school is located, is one of the largest in the empire and is one of the educational centers of Japan. It is the seat of the famous Koutani pottery, where some of the finest china in the world is made. Kanazawa is situated on the southwestern coast of the central island of the group and the climate is decidedly unfavorable to those not inured to it. Miss Glenn retained her health much longer than the average foreigner, but the dampness caused by excessive rains eventually undermined her health and made it necessary for her to give up her work for a time.

DELEGATES ARE GATHERING IN DENVER.

President Keating Will Not Stand for Re-Election—Outlines Scope of Work.

Denver, Colo., July 14.—The work of the forty-second biennial convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians began today with a meeting of the national executive committee and board of directors. Five hundred delegates are expected when the convention opens tomorrow. The national officers deny that politics will be injected into the deliberations.

"The convention," said President John Keating, "will occupy itself with the extension of the order, and will take action on the death of Archbishop Feehan, of Chicago, the national chaplain of the order. His death is the more deeply regretted as he was carrying on an important work in organizing the ranks of the order in the old country."

"We expect that the organization in Ireland and that in the United States will be united in the next six or eight months."

"As to the charges that the executive has been influenced by the Clan Na Gael or any other body, I will say that the administration for the last four years has been as conservative as any I can remember in my long connection with the order."

An anonymous circular is in circulation calling upon good Hibernians to oppose any resolution which may be offered endorsing the Clan Na Gael.

President Keating has announced that he is not a candidate for re-election. James E. Dolan, of Syracuse, N. Y., national vice president, and John A. Ryan, of Boston, are mentioned as candidates for the presidency.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Digests what you Eat

The medical profession is one of the most conservative in the world. It is well that it should be so. We want no experimenting with our lives or health. The physician is naturally and justifiably careful to prescribe no remedy until well satisfied of its merits. So it is no small testimonial to the worth of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure that it is coming into general use among physicians of all classes. They appreciate even more readily than the layman that it gives weak stomachs just the rest they need and are prescribing it freely with wonderfully successful results. Nothing is necessary. Eat all you want. While you are strengthening the body with wholesome food Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is restoring the stomach to perfect health by relieving it of its work. Don't be satisfied with merely temporary relief when this remedy offers a complete cure. "I have used in my practice quite a lot of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, with no failures but relief in almost all cases," writes Dr. W. L. Wallace of Kingstree, S. C. "After an active practice of forty-five years this is the first time I have ever had occasion to publicly advise all dyspeptics that they have a certain remedy in Kodol Dyspepsia Cure."

MILLER WANTS HIS SHARE.

(Indianapolis Journal.)

Charles C. Miller, of Fort Wayne, filed suit Friday against George Townsend and William S. Reed, who are the owners of the Townsend-Reed Construction company, builders of interurban electric lines, for $40,000. His suit is based on a contract which he made with the firm for superintending the engineering work of the Fort Wayne and Southwestern Traction company. His contract, as stated in the complaint, guaranteed him 10 per cent of all profits made by the firm on this road. Miller alleges that Townsend and Reed sold their bonds to W. B. McKinley, Sumner Wallace, J. F. Hill, C. E. Macomber and J. M. Haines, and by the sale made a profit of $100,000. He asked for his share of this profit and received, he alleges, only $1,000. He asks for judgment for the remainder of the $10,000, which would be 10 per cent of the profits.

MR. VAN AMES' BOWL.

W. E. Van Ames, a Fort Wayne man who owns one of the finest collections of old coins in America, has just added to his collection of antiquities a bowl that has been in the Van Ames family for generations. The vessel was evidently hammered from a piece of metal resembling copper and it bears the date A. D. 622. On the outside are embossed figures representing an ancient cart and there are numerous inscriptions in Greek and Sanskrit along the upper edge. The bowl has a cover also hammered, but not so elaborately worked. The vessel was purchased by a member of the Van Ames family many years ago, and he paid about $1,000 for it.

BUYS VALUABLE HORSE.

The latest addition to the stables at Brookside farm, J. H. Bane's country home, is Clifton IV, a 3-year-old chestnut hackney stallion with a pedigree as long as a pavement. The horse was sired by Clifton III, winner of many prizes in England and America, and his dam was Applause, who won numerous prizes in the east. Clifton IV has splendid action and shows up remarkably well in the shafts.

The people of this country will view with regret the recall of Mr. Wu Ting Fang, Chinese minister to Washington. Mr. Wu has been a constant diversion.

We suspect from this long and ominous silence that in trying to keep his throat moist these sultry days Colonel Waterson has not been able to keep his powder dry. It's longer time between fulminations than between drinks in Maine.

Joey C. gets it where he gave it to the Boers, which is not only political retaliation, but a thing that for itself mankind should be glad to witness. Joseph Chamberlain as British premier would not inspire specially good feeling toward his government from the world outside, particularly in America.

Judge Mattison, at Evansville, rebuked the grand jury for its failure to find indictments against liquor dealers and gamblers of that city. The judge thought it strange that with three hundred saloons and scores of gambling houses no violations of the law were discovered and true bills returned. The Vanderburg county grand jury probably got its cue from the Indianapolis criminal court jury, which let down a lot of gamblers recently with light fines and then accepted congratulations for their performance of duty.

President Roosevelt, it is reported, has ordered abandonment of the naval station established by this government near Havana, his reason being that this government has no right, in view of the treatment of Cuba by congress, to accept favors of the Cuban republic. There is something in that, to be sure, but the president is taking a rather extreme view of the situation. This government certainly owes Cuba every opportunity to prosper that can be extended. It must be remembered, however, that the balance is yet on our side. We have done almost immeasurable things for Cuba, and the acceptance of favors ought not yet excite any superstitiousness nor feeling of shame because congress failed in its duty to Cuba.

Disables the president desires merely to emphasize the congressional shortcoming and improve his disapprobation upon the best sugar coteries.

Lord Salisbury, the British premier, has resigned, and Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury in the Salisbury cabinet, has been elevated to the prime ministry. During the past year or two frequent rumors of Lord Salisbury's purpose to resign have gained currency only to be discredited and denied. Since the end of the Boer war, however, such rumors have been not only persistent, but have been generally credited. It was not expected, though, that the premier would quit his office until after the coronation of King Edward, and announcement at this time of his retirement causes some surprise. The resignation of Lord Salisbury means no harm to the British empire. Great as he was as a leader, he was in no sense a masterful statesman. Tory born, Tory bred and Tory to his very marrow, Toryism was the source of all his impulses and actions. Lord Salisbury believed religiously in the ruling classes, the supremacy of the aristocracy, of which the Cecils, his own family, were in his view a most stupendous part. Lord Salisbury was a man of immense abilities, a politician of surpassing skill and craftiness and a leader who could devise a trick or expedient for any emergency. The circumstances of his retirement emphasize this last quality to a nicety. He did not want and the king did not want Joseph Chamberlain, the secretary for the colonies, to succeed to the premiership. Chamberlain expected the distinction and his life has been bent to achievement of that honor. Salisbury resigned at a time when injury from an accident held Chamberlain down, and rushed his nephew, Balfour, into the vacancy. Balfour, however, is vastly more acceptable to the British public than Chamberlain. He has capacity, training and skill in affairs, though he has not (no Englishman now living has) Lord Salisbury's intimate and stupendous knowledge of European politics, unless it be Sir Charles Dilke. The Balfour ministry does not inherit specially grave problems. Peace has returned to South Africa and the rehabilitation of the newly annexed colonies does not present anything more difficult than diligent labor at detail in carrying out the peace terms. The ministry's graver tasks will be financial rather than political.

ADDITIONAL MAIL MAN TO BE ADDED OCTOBER 1.

Department Grants Request From Fort Wayne Postoffice—New Eligible List.

The postoffice department has granted the application of Postmaster Page for an increase in the force of mail carriers at the Fort Wayne postoffice, and an additional carrier will begin work October 1. This is the outcome of the recent visit here of an inspector, to whom it was demonstrated that the Fort Wayne carriers were covering a territory much larger than those in the average city, and that the growth of the city made additional help necessary. Milton R. Smith is now the senior substitute, and will doubtless be advanced to the new position on the regular list. This will make the total number of regular carriers twenty-three.

NEW ELIGIBLE LIST.
Of the twelve applicants who took the examination for positions as clerk and carriers in the Fort Wayne postoffice on June 11, five were successful in making a satisfactory grade, and are now placed upon an eligible list for appointment as vacancies occur. The successful applicants, with their grades, are as follows: Charles N. Stuteman, 87.50; Samuel L. Stover, 82.50; Robert H. Carter, 82.50; Charles A. Underwood, 77.25; Henry Storch, 70.40.

LORD SALISBURY AND A. J. BALFOUR

A Sketch of Great Britain's Retiring Premier and the Man Who Succeeds Him in the Empire's Most Important Office.

The Rt. Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, the new premier, who was first lord of England's treasury and government leader in the house of commons, is an uncommonly fortunate man. Just at the particular moment when his downfall in politics is predicted something somehow happens that elevates him higher than he was before. The illness of his uncle, Lord Salisbury, in 1894, gave Balfour the temporary control of the foreign office. He was then the guiding hand in the diplomacy of England in all parts of the world. Yet Ireland attached to his name long ago the adjective of "bleedily," and for years his opponents in the commons called him a "perfumed sop." Since 1874, when he first entered parliament for East Manchester, his opponents have insisted that he was a failure—that he could never rise to eminence—that he wore the glove of a gallant—that he mimed with the words of a woman. He was secretary to Scotland in 1890. Eight years prior to that time he sat in the Berlin congress as secretary to Salisbury. After the Scottish secretaryship he received that of Ireland, where his position was a dangerous one for all the years he occupied it. In 1891 he became first lord of the treasury, a position he still holds, and to which he has added the honor of being the conservative leader in the commons. Balfour is a golf player, an equestrian, a student, a writer of philosophical works and treatises, a biometalist. Englishmen say that in debate Chamberlain strikes with a bludgeon; Balfour punctuates with a rapier. They say Chamberlain wins when everything is against him; that Balfour wins when all is with him. Some tales are told of Balfour that may be true. He is said to boast that he never reads the newspapers and that he enjoys his bed until noon. His supporters are constantly aggravated by his lack of respect for the house of commons. He attends its sessions a little as possible. He was born in Scotland July 25, 1848, and therefore is but 52 years of age—a young prime minister.

The marquis of Salisbury, the retiring premier, known in his younger days as "Bob Cecil," is the third marquis, and was born at Hatfield, the family seat, in Hertfordshire, February 13, 1830. He was educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford, where he was graduated, and he was elected a fellow of All Souls, the aristocratic and conservative college, in 1853. In the same year he entered parliament as a member for Stamford, which is and always has been a pocket borough of the Cecil family. He held the membership as a conservative until April, 1868, when he succeeded to the marquessate. While in the lower house he was known as Lord Robert Cecil and later as Lord Cranbourne, a courtesy title. During his membership of the commons he was a leader-writer on the daily press, a prolific contributor to the Saturday Review and a writer on ecclesiastical and political subjects in the Quarterly Review. During his long connection with the press he gained a reputation as a caustic, satirical and brilliant writer rather than a solid or profound thinker, though his articles are able and far above mediocrity. In 1857 he married Miss Alderson, daughter of the exchequer baron of the name and niece of Mr. Opie, the author. His official political career began with his appointment as secretary of state for India in 1866, a position which he resigned on account of objection to the Tury reform bill of 1867. In 1869 he was elected chancellor of the University of Oxford, succeeding the late earl of Derby. He again took the Indian secretaryship under Mr. Disraeli in 1874. During the Serbian war he was sent as special ambassador to the Porte during the Constantinople conference and managed the whole affair. In April, 1878, he was appointed foreign secretary and later went to the Berlin congress with Lord Beaconsfield, and brought back a part of the celebrated "peace with honor," for which he received the Order of the Garter. He became prime minister in 1885 and served until 1892. He assumed the same office in 1893 and held it until his resignation, last week. As a speaker he is effective—terse, clear and at all times vigorous and never feeble. In appearance he is tall, bent, awkward, bald-headed and ungainly, full-bearded and with melancholy, appealing eyes. He is a hard, earnest and faithful worker and has a right to be called a statesman, though an unscrupulous one. He is impetuous, cynical and a skirmisher in tactics. With him Toryism is an inborn, inbred and overpowering principle; he believes in that and that alone.

IS BOUND TO BE A SOLDIER

FORT WAYNE LAD LEADS PURSUERS A LIVELY CHASE.

Louis Neimeier, 17 Years Old, Defies Parents and Eludes Man Sent After Him.

A seventeen-year-old boy from Fort Wayne, who had his head set on getting to St. Louis, where he could enlist in the regular army, caused trouble enough for his pursuer last night and this morning to have precipitated a storm of profanity from a Quaker, says the Logansport Reporter.

Yesterday afternoon Louis Neimeier, who resides with his parents on a farm in the vicinity of Fort Wayne, accompanied by two other boys who were likewise looking for war, left Fort Wayne with the intention of enlisting at the United States recruiting office at St. Louis. The boys' parents were opposed to the enlistment and commissioned William Nohrward to head the boy off. He followed him to the town of Wabash, but missed his quarry there, and last night came to Logansport and began a search for the runaway. He found out that the boy and his companions would take the train which leaves the city at 7:42 a. m. and accordingly started for the station this morning to head them off. When he reached the Ninth street station the train was just disappearing down the track, and the boy, who had outwitted his pursuer, waved his hand in a joyful farewell as the train rounded the curve in the direction of the Wabash bridge.

Mr. Nohrward went to police headquarters and asked that the Lafayette police be notified to take charge of the runaway, but the delay in getting long-distance telephone connection was such that the train had left Lafayette before the police of that city could get to the station. The defeated Mr. Nohrward finally gave up the chase and took the first train back to Fort Wayne, where he will see the boy's parents and have a telegram sent to St. Louis for the capture of the boy when the train arrives there, which it is scheduled to do at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Young Neimeier and his companions are well supplied with money and seem to be composed of the material of which good soldiers are made.

LONG FAST ENDS IN DEATH

MRS. AMANDA GEORGE EXPIRES AT ANDERSON.

Lived Sixty-Two Days Without Food—Eud Comes at Camp Grounds of Spirituists.

Anderson, Ind., July 14.—Mrs. Amanda George, of Indianapolis, died last night at the spiritualist camp ground after sixty-two days without either solid or liquid food. Her long fast is said to have broken all records. She had been afflicted with cancer of the stomach. This necessitated the fasting and she literally starved to death. She was seventy-eight years old.

Mrs. George was first taken ill four years ago with stomach troubles, which later developed into cancer. This was while she lived at Indianapolis. A year later she came to Chesterfield and took up her residence at the spiritualist camp grounds. A short while later she became seriously ill. Dr. Newhouse has been in constant attendance. He says she suffered a great deal all the time and this was especially true when she took food. Sixty-two days ago it became impossible for her to take food and from that time the woman has been fasting.

Mrs. George was stout and Dr. Newhouse gives this as the reason for her living so long without nourishment. Her abdomen was three inches thick and she had been living on her own flesh. Mrs. George retained her mental activity up until two or three days ago.

It is via the Pennsylvania, July 24, to Niagara Falls and return for $6.50 via Cleveland and steamer. Cleveland and Buffalo line have assigned one of their best boats for this occasion. 11111

SCROFULA

I bequeath to my children Scrofula with all its attendant horrors, humiliation and suffering. This is a strange legacy to leave to posterity; a heavy burden to place upon the shoulders of the young. This treacherous disease dwarfs the body and hinders the growth and development of the faculties, and the child born of blood poison, or scrofula-tainted parentage, is poorly equipped for life's duties. Scrofula is a disease with numerous and varied symptoms; enlarged glands or tumors about the neck and armpits, catarrh of the head, weak eyes and dreadful skin eruptions upon different parts of the body show the presence of tubercular or scrofulous matter in the blood. This dangerous and stealthily disease entrenches itself securely in the system and attacks the bones and tissues, destroys the red corpuscles of the blood, resulting in white swelling, a pallid, waxy appearance of the skin, loss of strength and a gradual wasting away of the body.

S. S. S. combines both purifying and tonic properties, and is guaranteed entirely vegetable, making it the ideal remedy in all scrofulous affections. It purifies the deteriorated blood, makes it rich and strong and a complete and permanent cure is soon effected. S. S. S. improves the digestion and assimilation of food, restores the lost properties to the blood and quickens the circulation, bringing a healthy color to the skin and vigor to the weak and emaciated body.

Write us about your case and our physicians will cheerfully advise and help you in every possible way to regain your health. Book on blood and skin diseases free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

CONSTIPATION

"I have gone 14 days at a time without a movement of the bowels, not being able to move them except by using hot water injections. Chronic constipation for seven years, placed me in this terrible condition, during that time I did not eat a thing, and I never found any relief, such as my case until I began using CASCARETS. I now have from one to three passages a day, and I feel like a new man. I would be glad to recommend it to such a sufferer."

PULLED GUN ON AN OFFICER

WILBUR MOORE CAUGHT RED-HANDED AT ROBBERY.

Lad Showed Desperate Disposition—
Young Companion Released,
But Moore is Held.

Jude Dreifelbax, who is still hobnobbing with fish and aristocrats up at Lake George, left a rather university mess for Hon. H. I. Smith, acting judge, to take care of this morning. Wilbur Moore and Willie Thompson, two lads of immature age, were arraigned on the serious charges of daylight burglary and larceny and the evidence was flatly against them. Moore's ears were taken under advisement, while that of young Thompson was continued indefinitely and he was released on his own recognizance.

For several days Potlitzer Bros. commission fruit merchants on Harrison street, have been missing sums of money from their till, ranging from forty-five cents to $5, and last Saturday Detective Colling was detailed to investigate the case. Colling went to the store shortly after 5 o'clock and crept into the store, and about 6 o'clock the store was locked up as usual and, acting according to instructions, every employee and proprietor immediately left the premises. Less than half an hour later Colling from his hiding place saw a young fellow emerge from a cellar stairway and make straight for the cash drawer. This was Moore. He saw the young fellow get a handful of money, and as he turned to leave the counting room Colling accosted him with: "Hey, there, young fellow, I guess I want you!"

PULLED A GUN.

"I guess not," said the young lad, as he whipped out a revolver, which was only a .22, but which the detective said for a minute looked like a thirteen-inch gun—the young fellow had got it out so quick. Colling in a second thrust his own revolver under the fellow's nose and told him to throw up his hands, which order was promptly complied with. The stolen money, amounting to $1.30, was still in Moore's hand. Outside, the detective a few minutes later arrested Willie Thompson, a boy of 15, who had been stationed to watch. Both boys were locked up and held until this morning. Meanwhile, Colling, who was surprised at the coolness and nerve of Moore, and the promptness with which he got his revolver when accosted, made some further investigations and learned that while Moore was in the cellar he heard the creaking of Colling's shoes on the floor above him. Colling having moved his position, and, running to the cellar gate, through which he had effected an entrance, told Thompson to see who was in the store, as he had heard someone walk. Thompson reconnoitered, but saw no one and so informed the chief burglar. "I'll watch out, anyway," said Moore, "and if anybody tries to stop me, I'll kill 'em," with which he took his little revolver out of his pocket and carried it in his hand as he disappeared.

CONFESED GUILT.

When asked to plead to the charge of having burglarized the store and stolen $1.30, Moore pleaded guilty, and on further questioning said that this was the only time he had ever been in the place and that he stole the money because he was hungry and wanted to buy something to eat. He solemnly denied ever having been engaged in any disreputable transaction before, but this story was upset by young Thompson before the story was over. The judge was at first inclined to pass a nominal fine and jail sentence, but after other things began to develop he concluded to take the matter under advisement until tomorrow, meantime sending the young man to jail for safe keeping. Moore is about 16 years of age and has lived here for three or four years, with the exception of a few months last fall. He says his father is dead and that he does not know where his mother is, she having left the city about three months ago. Meantime, he has been sleeping in barns and doing odd jobs of work, according to his own story.

OF GOOD PARENTAGE.

Young Thompson is a bright looking lad of fifteen, living with his parents at 404 Pearl street. The parents are eminently respectable, hard-working people, who feel the disgrace brought upon them by their son's action most keenly. The father is an employee at the electric light works and the boy was formerly employed as a Western Union messenger. The lad said that he had known young Moore for several years and knew of his depredations; that he knew he was doing wrong, but that he never realized the actual gravity of the offense he was committing; that he had never taken any actual part in any burglary, but had received 10 cents as his portion of the swag one day last week. He said that Moore and a boy named Roy Weinbrenner had entered Potlitzer's store three times previously but were caught on Tuesday, once on Wednesday and the third time on Friday night. He was cognizant of all these robberies, but did not know how much had been realized.

Mr. Diamond, of the Potlitzer firm, said that the dates corresponded and that $3 and $5 had been taken on two of the occasions and 45 cents on the third.

ATTORNEY'S STRONG PLEA.

Attorney Geake put in a plea for young Thompson and presented to the court that the little fellow was not really bad, but had unfortunately been found in bad company; that he believed his present experience would prove a lesson, and that he could be made a good and useful citizen if given a chance and was not branded in his youth as a criminal; that while he was implicated, he had done nothing really criminal, and that he should be given a chance. The attorney's plea was very pathetic and the pathos was heightened by the presence of the mother, who with tears streaming down her cheeks looked appealingly at the judge, and the father, who looked very thoughtful and very much heartbroken over the unfortunate affair. The boy, too, sobbed audibly while the attorney was addressing the court. The prosecutor intimated that he had no inclination to deal harshly with the little fellow, but thought that the ring-leader was rather accomplished as a criminal and should be taken care of. The judge thereupon called young Thompson to his desk, gave him a sound lecture and some very good advice, and after exacting a promise from him that he would discard his old associates and act upon the advice of his parents, he was allowed to go.

Brinkroger's grocery, on Harrison street, was robbed one night last week and the officers are confident that young Moore was the chief in that raid. The police department is investigating and young Weinbrenner will be arrested as soon as found.

ONE OTHER CASE.

The only other case was that of Michael Ryan, arrested on Saturday for vagrancy. "I'm no vagrant, I'd have y' know, en' wen I cum here I had me own money in me pocket. I'm a plumber, sor, en' I jist wouldn't disturb a plumbing boss of a Satterdy to ask him for a job."

"Could you get out of town in an hour if I let you go?" asked the judge.

"Could I? Watch me!" said Mr. Ryan, as he slid for the door.

Charles Volz, of 524 Suttentfield street, returned from an unsuccessful fishing expedition yesterday evening and about 10 o'clock lay down in Williams grove to rest up and think over the perversity of fish in some localities. He fell asleep and when he woke up he found that someone had stolen his hat, his pole and reel and his minnow bucket. If he hadn't eaten the bait the thieves might have stolen that too.

Carl Diether reports that some one stole his bicycle from in front of 1021 West Main street last evening.

On Saturday evening at 10 o'clock the patrol wagon was called to remove John Wall from 1729 South Calhoun street to St. Joseph hospital; he was seriously ill with typhoid fever.

A telephone message from Kalamazoo asks the police to look out for Hallie Metzler, who is wanted there. Hallie is a fit of absentmindedness carried away $80 of another fellow's money. A good description of the young fellow was given.

REPLY SENT TO THE VATICAN

REJOINDER A DIPLOMATIC DOCUMENT.

VISIT TO OYSTER BAY.

Washington, July 14.—It was learned here today that the reply of Secretary Root to the dispatch of Governor Taft has already been cabled to Rome. It is in the nature of instructions as to what rejoinder shall be made to the vatican in answer to its first general reply to General Taft. These instructions to Governor Taft were prepared before Secretary Root left Washington, but were deemed of such importance that submission to the president was thought desirable. The position of the United States is unchanged and the instructions of Secretary Root, issued before General Taft went to Rome, are adhered to in every essential. The important point of these instructions were that the friars should be withdrawn and upon this question the administration remains firm. The rejoinder is a diplomatic document and couched in such language that there will be a continuation of the negotiations.

SPOONER SEES PRESIDENT.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 14.—Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, arrived at Sagamore Hill about half-past 10 o'clock last night and after a conference with the president and Secretary Root left for New York about midnight. Mr. Spooner successfully eluded newspaper men, not one of whom saw him. His conversation with the president related in part to the proposed purchase of the Panama Canal company's property. The senator had been invited by the department of justice to accompany one of the assistant attorney generals to Paris to assist in the investigation of the title to the Panama Canal company's property. Whether he will go or not has not been decided so far as can be learned here. President Roosevelt, Secretary Root and the president's physician, Dr. Lambert, devoted themselves a greater part of the time today to recreation. Secretary Root will leave Sagamore Hill late this afternoon returning to New York on the naval yacht Kankakee. He will take a train immediately for Washington, arriving there tomorrow morning.

MAY RELIEVE BRAGG.

Washington, July 14.—The criticism of the Cuban people ascribed in a publication this morning to General Bragg, United States consul general at Havana, has not been officially brought to the attention of the state department, and until it is there will be no action in the case. Senator Quay, the Cuban minister, spent the day in one of the suburban resorts and consequently did not call at the department. It will be for him, if any one, to make complaint. Then the natural course will be to call upon General Bragg for an explanation and if he admits the authenticity of the quotation, and the Cuban government so desires, he must be relieved.

United States Cruiser Brooklyn at Southampton—Full Naval Honors and Paid Late Diplomat.

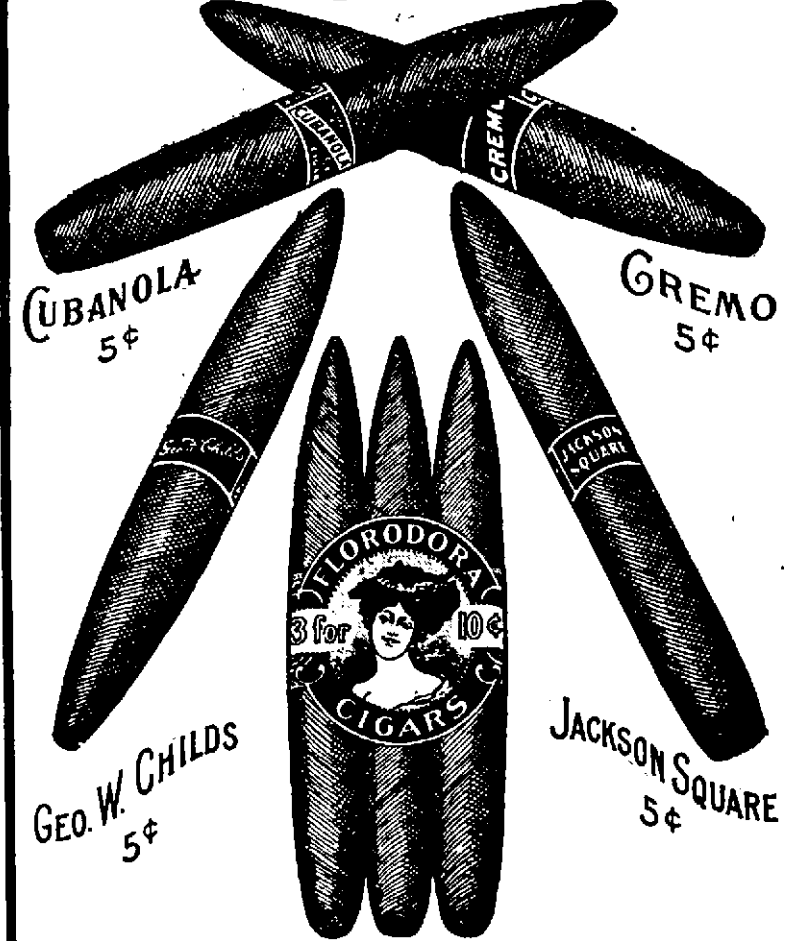

Southampton, England July 14.—The United States armored cruiser Brooklyn, from Annapolis, July 1, having on board the remains of Lord Pauncefote late ambassador of Great Britain at Washington, arrived here this morning. The body was landed soon after 11 o'clock.

Full naval honors were paid to the remains of Lord Pauncefote. His widow followed the coffin from the warship to the train, which started for Newark-upon-Trent, where the funeral will take place tomorrow.

The ceremony of the transfer of the remains was impressive. One hundred and twenty-four bluejackets composed the bearer party. The coffin was taken between lines of seamen with arms reversed to a specially decorated railroad carriage. During the removal of the body the American and British bands played Chopin's funeral march.

Besides the widow and the family Rear Admiral Joseph B. Coghlan, the officers of the Brooklyn, the United States consul, John E. Hopley, a number of British naval officers and

VACATION SEASON

PENNSYLVANIA EMPLOYEES READY FOR ANNUAL REST.

SEVERAL SHOP RESIGNATIONS

MARSHALL COMINCAVISH QUILTS THE WABASH SHOPS.

HUNDREDS OF TRAVELERS ON ALL ROADS YESTERDAY.

The vacation season has arrived and Supt. J. B. McKim, of the Pennsylvania, has made a slight change in his operating force in order that the work will not be in the least affected by the absence of one or more men. Frank W. Byer, Mr. McKim's stenographer, will act as assistant trainmaster, and is now out with Mr. Patterson "learning the road." John G. Wolfgram, of the trainmaster's office, has taken Mr. Byer's place in Mr. McKim's office and William A. Potthoff, from Chief Clerk Learmonth's office, has taken Mr. Wolfgram's place. Commencing today the men in the superintendent's, the trainmaster's and the dispatcher's offices will be given leave of absence as they can be spared from the work.

TWO MILES IN 78 SECONDS.

A telegram from Chicago, published Saturday by The Sentinel, told of the phenomenal run made by the Twentieth Century Limited on the Lake Shore road on that day, but omitted mention of a very interesting feature of the run. The best time was made between Edgerton and Butler, where two miles were covered in seventy-eight seconds. Engine 606, with Engineer James H. Calkins and Fireman C. A. Hollibaugh in the cab, pulled the train over the Toledo division.

FRESHNEY RESIGNS.

S. A. Freshney, for three years the Michigan representative of the Fort Wayne Electric company, with headquarters in Grand Rapids, has resigned to accept the position of general manager of the Muskegon Traction and Lighting company, of Muskegon. Mr. Freshney was manager of the old Muskegon Lighting company seven years before taking the position from which he now retires.

RACE PROGRAM COMPLETE.

The race feature of the field day sports of the Pennsylvania Employes' Athletic association was completed Saturday night and the best local flyers in the city will be the competitors in the several races. Included in the list of entries are the following well known horses: "Wayne Chief," owned by H. W. Tapp; "John N.," owned by William McKinnis; "Harry C.," owned by Charles MacDougal; "Georgewood," owned by John T. Reed, and "Silver Piece," owned by R. H. Carahan. Another big event of the day will be the ball game at League park between teams selected from the shopmen in this city and those at Allegheny, which will be called promptly at 9 o'clock and which will be open to the public free. Some of the very best professional ball players came from these shops and there are still others, just as good, there. The game will be one of the best ever witnessed in this city. Great interest is also being taken in the tug-of-war contests, in which two teams from this city and two from Allegheny have already entered. The Loganport shops have intimated a desire to get into this contest and negotiations with that end in view are now pending. The automobile race events have not been closed yet, but assurance is given that there will be plenty of entries and that this feature will be an attractive one.

THE EXCURSIONS.

Sunday travel was unusually heavy yesterday, all of the special excursion trains and all other trains that carried passengers at cheap rates being loaded about to their full capacity. Outgoing the Rome City party was the largest and incoming the Lake Erie and Western led in numbers. A canvass of the field elicited the following: From Connersville and other points on the Lake Erie, 560; from Findlay, over the C. & H. D., 105; from Dayton over the same road, 309; from Toledo over the Wabash, 275; from Detroit over the Wabash, 123; to Rome City, 663; to Toledo, 147; to Detroit, 71; to Cincinnati, over the Lake Erie and Western, 100. The latter train went out of Connersville with over 400 passengers for the Queen City. In addition to the foregoing, business on all regular trains was very good and the Sunday morning extra train from this city to Chicago, over the Pennsylvania, went into the Windy City with eleven cars well filled with passengers. The Nickel Plate also did a good business in carrying passengers to Chicago, Knox and elsewhere yesterday, its trains going into the former city with every seat occupied. C. A. Asterlin, traveling passenger agent of the Nickel Plate, has booked a number of excursions for the near future. He has arranged to have a special train to Sandusky and Cedar Point on July 23, leaving this city at 5:30 in the morning and going through to the destination without change of cars. Cedar Point is a favorite resort in Ohio and Mr. Asterlin anticipates a big crowd. July 27 he will run a special train to Payne, Ohio, the occasion being the dedication of a Catholic church. This train will leave at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. August 18, the Nickel Plate will carry the Sunday schools of Argos and Mentone, one party to Robison park and the other to Rome City. This is an annual affair with those schools and as they have turned out big crowds on previous occasions, it is presumed that they will do so again.

A FIREMAN INJURED.

Pennsylvania Fireman John Longbaugh has gone to his old home in Dunkirk, Ohio, to remain until he recovers from injuries received in a most peculiar manner last night. In a mysterious way a signal torpedo that was in the cab exploded, burning and cutting the fireman's hands most painfully. Fireman W. J. Worden, also of the Pittsburgh, has gone to his parents' home in Chicago to remain until he recovers from a very sore throat.

WONDERFUL INCREASE.

Manager J. J. Wood, of the Fort Wayne Electric company, said this morning that the first half of the year 1902 shows an increase of 40 per cent. over the corresponding period of the preceding year. He also stated that indications point to a maintenance of this ratio of increase throughout the year. This increase will appear all the more wonderful to the reader if he will stop to consider the fact that last year showed an equal increase over the business of the year 1900. An addition in the equipment and working force of the factory, for which purpose machinery has already been ordered, will enable the management to increase the output considerably.

COMINCAVISH RESIGNS.

Marshall Comincaivish, one of the best known mechanics in the city and for the past two years employed as a toolmaker in the Wabash shops, resigned this morning and Charles Stein, also a first-class mechanic, has taken the vacated position in the tool department. Mr. Comincaivish has no superior in the kind of work he is accustomed to and his services in that line are in demand. It is understood he has an offer of a better job and intends to accept. T. C. Evans, machinist apprentice; Albert Tracey, helper in the boiler shop, and Charles Mercer, also a helper in the same shop, quit this morning, the latter to take a position as brakeman on the Pittsburgh road.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Pennsylvania Conductor Rudolph Kabisch is sick and off duty. John Eick is a new man in the Wabash boiler shop, taking employment this morning. William Koehlmeyer, of the Electric works, had his back sprained this morning and had to quit work. Machinist Philip Lordier, who was sick several days, reported for work at the Pittsburgh shops this morning. The Pennsylvania company ran an excursion from Cincinnati to Richmond yesterday and hauled a big crowd. Pierre Plantings, of the Western Gas Construction company, is looking after some business in Chicago for the firm. After a week's absence on account of an injured foot, Machinist G. F. Cramer reported for duty at the Wabash shops this morning. Killian Vorndran, watchman at the Broadway gates of the Pennsylvania, will resume charge there tonight. He has been sick several days. Ed Jenney, a carpenter, and C. C. Raquet, a welder, of the Electric works, are off duty celebrating the advent of a son at each home. C. Monahan and J. J. Donley, formerly employed as brakemen on the Pittsburgh road, are now employed in the Wabash yards under Yardmaster Pratt. The Lake Erie and Western is receiving from mines located at Pittsburgh, on the Evansville and Terre Haute road, fifteen car loads of coal a day. A number of Erie shopmen from Huntington will be in the city next Saturday to witness the ball game between the Broadway team and a team composed of Erie employes. Dennis O'Connor, foreman of the laborers in the Pittsburgh machine shop, resumed charge of the department this morning. He had been laid up two months with a lame leg. R. W. Shaw and J. Weber are sick and Peter Gnan is off duty on account of private business. They are Pittsburgh shopmen. Arthur Rapp, a knitter at the Wayne mills, has gone to the home of his parents, near Dunlap, Ind., to spend a two weeks' leave of absence. He has been in poor health for a few days.

Machinist and Mrs. Julius Kock, of Oliver street, had as a guest yesterday the latter's sister, Mrs. Comer, of Lima, O.

The wife and children of Janitor John Morning, of the Bass clock, went to Ohio last Saturday to spend two weeks with relatives.

Miss Mame Barry, daughter of Blacksmith Owen Barry, has gone to Crestline for a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends.

George Scott, of the Pittsburgh shop office, is looking after some clerical work in Chicago, which will keep him in that city for a few days.

Air Brake Inspector Louis Beck, of the Pittsburgh, has gone to Newark, Ohio, to visit his brother, who is employed in the Baltimore and Ohio shops.

J. M. Breidenstein, an air brake inspector in the Pittsburgh round house, resumed work this morning after a two weeks' visit with his parents in Altoona, Pa.

Boiler Foreman James Murray, of the Wabash, has gone to Delray, Mich., on business for the company and Patrick Maley has charge of the shop in the meantime.

John Hall is a new name on the pay roll at the Bass smithshop. Mr. Hall worked at that place several years ago, but resigned to work on the Pittsburgh coal docks.

Mrs. Stetter, wife of Louis Stetter, of the Pittsburgh tank shop, will leave the latter part of the week for New York, where she will visit friends for several weeks.

During the summer months the Ladies' society of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen will meet every other week, commencing the new arrangement next Wednesday afternoon.

L. Linker, of the Pittsburgh planing mills, has obtained a leave of absence from the shop for the purpose of going to the country to help his father during the harvest season.

E. B. Turner, who was sick, and Ernest Behling, who had a finger injured, resumed their work in the Pittsburgh machine shop this morning, after an absence of a week or two.

George T. Ladd, traveling salesman for the Bass works, will take a two weeks' vacation and tonight, with a party of friends, will leave for the fishing resorts in northern Michigan.

A slot weighing machine in the Union station at Indianapolis "took in" $120.12 during the month of June. In other words, 12,012 people were weighed by the machine during that month.

Consumers of anthracite coal will pay from $1 to $2 more per ton for the fuel the coming winter than they did last. Coal dealers assert that the wholesale price is a dollar in advance of that of last year.

Dr. J. M. Dinnen reports a slight improvement in the condition of Superintendent S. E. Blair, whose illness was mentioned by The Sentinel Saturday. The patient's ailment is due to the heat and to hard work.

Machinist and Mrs. P. J. Hess returned home Saturday. They had a most enjoyable trip through Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado. Mr. Hess resumed his duties in the Pittsburgh shops this morning.

William G. Fuelling, P. Beckweg and Morris Zollinger, colemakers resumed work at the Bass foundry this morning after an absence of two or three weeks on account of sickness. Mr. Fuelling had the smallest.

Nickel Plate Passenger Conductor Charles Burgess is sick and off duty. Conductor George Harsh has taken charge of the former's trains. Brakeman Al Brestler, of the Nickel Plate, is also off duty on account of sickness.

The Nickel Plate is asked to pay $10,000 for the death of Emily Nuhn, who met death in the accident at Vermilion, Feb. 18, 1900. Suit is brought by Miss Caroline Nuhn, administratrix, in the common pleas court at Conneaut.

Captain H. M. Deihl left on Pennsylvania train No. 24 last evening for Allegheny, where he will be engaged a few days on work connected with the high speed air brake system recently adopted by the Pennsylvania company.

Last Friday the Bass company shipped two 150-horse power boilers to the Gladstone works of the Cleveland Cliffs Mining company. The order calls for three boilers and the third one will leave the shops some time this week.

Machinist Graves Maupin, for a year or two foreman of the lathe department of the Wabash shops, is now working in the shops of the Galveston, Houston and Henderson company under Master Mechanic William Paul. The latter was general foreman of the Wabash shop for a year.

The West Virginia Collecting agencies, which caused trouble for several Fort Wayne people and annoyance to the Pennsylvania and Nickel Plate local officials, is now operating in New Jersey, among employees of the Pennsylvania railroad. The agency was baffled by adverse legal decisions in the state of Pennsylvania.

this morning sent a 1,000-light dynamite to the Indiana State Soldiers' home, Lafayette. This is only a part of the equipment of an extensive plant.

Mrs. A. W. Thompson, of 2009 South Harrison street, wife of the well known Pittsburgh shopman, has nearly recovered from the severe injury she received to her right hand on the Fourth by the premature explosion of a dynamite fire cracker.

Blacksmith David Murray and Machinist G. S. Cramer, who had a foot injured; Machinist E. B. Hughes, who had an eye hurt, and W. C. Hine, who had an arm cut by a piece of steel, reported for duty in the Wabash shops this morning.

Ernest Heuer, whose illness has been mentioned in these columns, is in a very critical condition. Last night it was feared he could not recover, and the improvement has been only slight. Mr. Heuer is assistant boiler foreman at the Wabash shops and a most popular man.

George Stetter, Jr., connected with the engineering department of the Lake Shore road, was instantly killed by falling while trying to get aboard a moving train at Stryker, Ohio, last Friday. He lived in Toledo and his duties occasionally brought him to Fort Wayne.

The family of Vice President J. J. Turner, of the Pennsylvania, will pass through the city this evening, en route to Macinac, where they will spend the heated term. They will come in on Pennsylvania train No. 9 and leave on Grand Rapids train No. 8, traveling in their private car.

William Meikle, foreman of the Pennsylvania shops at Lancaster, has been appointed master mechanic of the Cincinnati and Muskegon Valley road, an office just created. This road has twenty locomotives and 394 cars, seventeen of them passenger cars. Mr. Meikle's headquarters are in Lancaster.

Foreman Strube, of the instrument department of the Fort Wayne Electric works, this morning added the following names to his list of workmen: Geo. Meyers and Albert Niehter. The latter is the young man who was badly injured by a gas explosion in a house on Hendricks street a couple of years ago.

Al Throckmorton, H. W. Brockman, Frank Stenger and J. Junk, who were sick; M. Schmidt, who had a wrist hurt on the 2nd inst.; Frank Girard, who was at Rome City a week; G. H. Heckman, who was on his farm in Adams county a week, and E. W. Moons, who was fishing several days, resumed their respective places in the Pittsburgh shops this morning.

Jacob Erlenbaugh, a machinist in the Wabash shops, is receiving more than one man's share of the ill of this life. Six weeks ago he lost a sister by death and this morning he was summoned to Huntington by a message which conveyed news of the death of his father, a prominent harnessmaker of Huntington. The funeral occurs tomorrow and out of respect to their shopmate several of the Wabash machinists will attend.

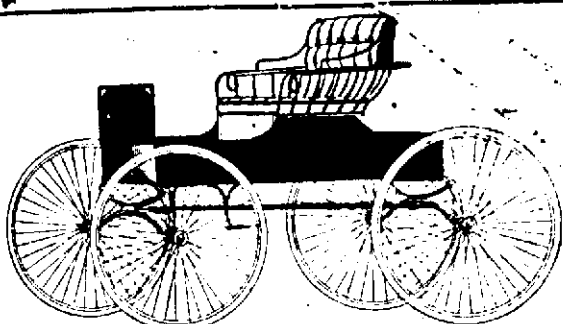

The only news feature today in the temporary distribution of the Pennsylvania office force, pending the removal of the building, is the selection of rooms at the Y. M. C. A. building for W. B. Blake, engineer of maintenance of way, and his assistants and clerks. The department will be moved this week. The trainmaster's force moved into the car prepared for them today.

Buffalo Bill's Wild West show paraphernalia and people were handled Saturday and today by the Grand Rapids and Indiana company. The show gave an exhibition at Grand Rapids Saturday and is exhibiting at Petoskey today. The show drew big crowds at both places and taxed the carrying capacity of the railways leading to those cities as they have not been taxed this summer.

Dr. E. F. Wagner, of the Pennsylvania relief department, and A. Fuelling, city editor of the Staats Zeitung, who have been fishing at Lake George for ten days, will return home this evening. Dr. Wagner writes that during the early part of their sojourn at the resort Editor Fuelling fell into the water twice in his efforts to land big fish, but he was rescued on each occasion without any damage other than to his feelings. Afterwards, Dr. Wagner says, Mr. Fuelling was "chained to his seat in the boat."

Personal injury insurance has become very common among railway and shop employes and the many men who have benefitted thereby prove that a policy is a good thing and well worth the amount necessary to maintain it. Of course the insurance companies receive more than they disburse, else they could not continue in business, but there are some instances where the insured draw more money from the insurance people than from the company that gives them employment. Daniel Beemer, an apprentice in the Menon shops at Lafayette, belongs to this class. Last Friday he had the bone of a finger broken and will be disabled for several weeks. This was the fourth time within twelve months that he had a bone broken. Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio employes have relief departments and do not patronize the other accident insurance companies to any great extent.

WILL COME HOME

GENERAL CHAFFEE BELIEVED

GEN. G. W. DAVIS SUCCEEDS

CHAFFEE'S DISAPPROVAL WAS SEVERE.

Washington, July 14.—General Chaffee has been relieved of command in the Philippines and ordered to the command of the Department of the East, by an order issued today by Secretary Root. The order reads as follows:

"By direction of the president, Major General George W. Davis will relieve Major General Chaffee of the command of the Division of the Philippines September 30, 1902. On being relieved General Chaffee will, with his authorized aides, repair to Governor's Island, New York, and assume command of the Department of the East."

RECORD IN WALLER CASE.

Washington, July 14.—The incoming Philippine mail brings the full printed record of proceedings in the court martial case of Major Lytton W. T. Waller and Lieutenant John Horace Arthur Day, of the marine corps, growing out of the killing of some native bearers, or cargadores, in Samar. The record shows that Major Waller was acquitted of the charge of murder, but that General Chaffee, declaring that "there has been a miscarriage of justice in this case," disapproves the finding and the acquittal, with the exception that while Waller should not have been found guilty of murder, the court should have included a lesser offense. General Chaffee's endorsement is very strong, and he declares that with the exception of three who deserted, no overt acts were committed by the cargadores, but on the contrary "those sent to their death continued to the last to carry the arms and ammunition of the men after they were no longer able to bear them, and to render in their impulsive way such services as deepens the conviction that, without their assistance, many of the marines who now survive would also have perished."

In the case of Lieutenant Day, who also was acquitted, General Chaffee disapproves the finding of the specification and charge of murder. He says that Lieutenant Day should have known that his commanding officer, Major Waller, had for three weeks been under a test of mental and physical endurance such as few men are called upon to undergo; that he was sick with fever, his temperature 105 and his body covered with painful sores. Day was the only officer not sick on duty and in the full possession of his faculties, and his plain duty was to counsel delay in the execution of the orders to kill the natives. General Chaffee refers to the order of Major Waller as "stupid," and says that "it should have prompted him (Day) to a positive disobedience of the same."

A few days ago General Chaffee was cabled that he could have either the command of the Department of the East or the Department of the Lakes if he desired to come home at this time. He was informed that the retirement of General Brooke afforded an opportunity of making either change he desired. The cablegram closed with a commendation by the secretary of war of General Chaffee's service in China and the Philippines. A reply was received Saturday from General Chaffee stating that he left the matter entirely with the department, but that he would prefer New York in case he was relieved in the Philippines. He suggested that September 30 would be a good date to make any change in the command of the Philippines. These dispatches were sent to President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, who consulted with Secretary Root, and the secretary directed the order to be issued relieving General Chaffee and placing General Davis in command.

General MacArthur has been asked to take command of the Department of the East when General Brooke returns until he can be relieved by General Chaffee.

ELECTION THIS EVENING.

The annual meeting of the Fort Wayne Commercial club will be held this evening, and among the matters to come up will be the annual election of directors and officers for the ensuing year.

ELKS WILL PICNIC AUGUST 3.

The Elks' picnic, to have been held at Peter Certe's farm, southwest of the city, several weeks ago, will be held on Sunday, Aug. 3, and the program originally outlined will be carried out. The picnic was postponed on account of rain.

THE ILLINOIS DAMAGED.

Christians, Norway, July 14.—Owing to a family steering gear the United States battleship Illinois struck the bottom of the harbor, which will compel her to go back to England and be placed in dry dock there.

PARKS DREW GREAT CROWDS

OUT BIG ATTENDANCE.

Southwestern Opened Happy Hollow and Practically Depopulated
Two Towns.

The weather Sunday was of a character that sent thousands of Fort Wayne people to the parks in search of comfort, and there were great throngs in all of the pleasure spots in and about Fort Wayne. Robinson park is credited with having by far the largest Sunday crowd of the season, and the parks inside the city were all thronged with people during the afternoon and evening.

The Southwestern Interurban line did a tremendous business, the reports showing that a total of 3,684 passengers were carried yesterday. Happy Hollow, the new pleasure spot west of Huntington, was formally opened with a band concert, and the small park was densely packed with people during the entire day. Car service was opened to Lagro, and the people of this town, as well as those of Andrews, practically deserted the places for the day.

ABOUT THE COURT HOUSE.

Judge Aiken, in the superior court, granted three divorces this morning, as follows:

Loa A. Galloway from David H. Galloway and the custody of one child. The complaint was filed this morning and alleged abuse. The parties were married in 1889 and separated only today.

Charles T. Allen was divorced from Clara Allen, this complaint also being filed today.

Celia Etchey was divorced from Edward Etchey and the complaint alleged that they had been married in April of this year and that the defendant had been abusive.

Anna Bloomhuff was cited to appear a bill of particulars in her case for damages against Catherine Boltz, the bill to be presented within three days.

August Druddik was given a judgment against J. J. Eme and Victor Sallot on a note for $167.11.

In the divorce case of Frank A. Aman vs. Rose E. Aman, the plaintiff was ordered to pay the defendant $25 as a temporary allowance.

Arguments for a new trial of the lively vs. the City Trucking company were heard this afternoon by Judge Aiken.

Elmer Gutcher has commenced action against Michael Gutcher to establish a trust and quiet title.

Alma Monnock, who has been in the charge of the sheriff for over a month, was today received at the feeble minded home.

Peter A. Moran sure Pauline Weincke for possession of real estate and to quiet title.

The people of this country will now with regret the recall of Mr. Wu Ting Fang, Chinese minister to Washington. Mr. Wu has been a constant diversion.

We suspect from this long and nervous silence that in trying to keep his throat moist these sultry days Colonel Watterson has not been able to keep his powder dry. It's a long time between fumigations and between drinks in Maine.

Joey C. gets it where he gave it to Boers, which is not only political tribulation, but a thing that for itself rankled should be glad to witness Joseph Chamberlain as British premier would not inspire specially good feeling toward his government from the world outside, particularly in America.

Judge Mattison, at Evansville, rejected the grand jury for its failure to find indictments against liquor salers and gamblers of that city. He judge thought it strange that with three hundred saloons and scores of gambling houses no violations of the law were discovered and the bills returned. The Vanderburg county grand jury probably got its lead from the Indianapolis criminal court jury, which let down a lot of gamblers recently with light fines and then accepted congratulations for their performance of duty.

President Roosevelt, it is reported, has ordered abandonment of the naval station established by the government near Havana, his reason being that this government has no right in view of the treatment of Cuba by congress, to accept favors from the Cuban republic. There is something in that, to be sure, but the president is taking a rather extreme view of the situation. This government certainly owes Cuba every opportunity to prosper that can be extended. It must be remembered, however, that the balance is on our side. We have done almost immeasurable things for Cuba, the acceptance of favors ought not excite any supersensitiveness or feeling of shame because confided in its duty to Cuba.

Lord Salisbury, the British premier, has resigned, and Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury in the Salisbury cabinet, has been elevated to the prime ministry. During the past year or two frequent rumors of Lord Salisbury's purpose to resign have gained currency only to be discounted and denied. Since the end of the Boer war, however, such rumors have been not only persistent, but have been generally credited. It was not expected, though, that the premier would quit his office until after the coronation of King Edward, and announcement at this time of his retirement causes some surprise. The resignation of Lord Salisbury means no harm to the British empire. Great as he was as a leader, he was in no sense a masterful statesman. Very born, very bred and very to his very marrow, Toryism was the source of all his impulses and actions. Lord Salisbury believed religiously in the ruling classes, the supremacy of the aristocracy, of which the Cecil, his own family, were in his view a most stupendous part. Lord Salisbury was a man of immense abilities, a politician of surpassing skill and craftiness and a leader who could devise a trick or expedient for any emergency. The circumstances of his retirement emphasize this last quality to a nicety. He did not want and the king did not want Joseph Chamberlain, the secretary for the colonies, to succeed to the premiership. Chamberlain expected the distinction and his life has been bent to achievement of that honor. Salisbury resigned at a time when injury from an accident held Chamberlain down, and rushed his nephew, Balfour, into the vacancy. Balfour, however, is vastly more acceptable to the British public than Chamberlain. He has capacity, training and skill in affairs, though he has not (no Englishman now living has) Lord Salisbury's intimate and stupendous knowledge of European politics, unless it be Sir Charles Dilke. The Balfour ministry does not inherit specially grave problems. Peace has returned to South Africa and the rehabilitation of the newly annexed colonies does not present anything more difficult than diligent labor at detail in carrying out the peace terms. The ministry's graver tasks will be financial rather than political.

ADDITIONAL MAIL MAN TO BE ADDED OCTOBER 1.

Department Grants Request From Fort Wayne Postoffice—Sew Eligible List.

The postoffice department has granted the application of Postmaster Page for an increase in the force of mail carriers at the Fort Wayne postoffice, and an additional carrier will begin work October 1. This is the outcome of the recent visit here of an inspector, in whom it was demonstrated that the Fort Wayne carriers were covering a territory much larger than those in the average city, and that the growth of the city made additional help necessary. Milton R. Smith is now the senior superintendent, and will doubtless be advanced to the new position on the regular list. This will make the total number of regular carriers twenty-three.

NEW ELIGIBLE LIST.
Of the twelve applicants who took the examination for positions as clerk and carriers in the Fort Wayne postoffice on June 11, five were successful in making a satisfactory grade, and are now placed upon the eligible list for appointment as vacancies occur. The successful applicants, with their grades, are as follows: Charles N. Stotsman, 87.55; Samuel L. Stover, 82.90; Robert H. Carter, 82.55; Charles A. Underwood, 77.25; Henry Storck, 70.40.

DETROIT EXCURSIONS.

Everybody who made the Detroit trip last Sunday on the new Steel Passenger Steamer "Greyhound" was delighted. Another opportunity is offered next Sunday. This is the largest and finest appointed excursion steamer in America. A veritable water palace. She carries 3,500 people when occasion demands. Special steamboat express leaves Wabash Depot at 6:00 a. m. Tickets $1.50 round trip. Good two days, returning direct by rail $2.50. Both Phones No. 6. Jun-18-eod-20t

LORD SALISBURY AND A. J. BALFOUR

The Rt. Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, the new premier, who was first lord of England's treasury and government leader in the house of commons, is an uncommonly fortunate man. Just at the particular moment when his downfall in politics is predicted something somehow happens that elevates him higher than he was before. The illness of his uncle, Lord Salisbury, in 1898, gave Balfour the temporary control of the foreign office. He was then the guiding hand in the diplomacy of England in all parts of the world. Yet Ireland attached to his name long ago the adjective of "bloody," and for years his opponents in the commons called him a "perfumed rap." Since 1874, when he first entered parliament for East Manchester, his opponents have insisted that he was a failure—that he could never rise to eminence—that he wore the glove of a gollant—that he minced with the words of a woman. He was secretary to Scotland in 1890. Eight years prior to that time he sat in the Berlin congress as secretary to Salisbury. After the Scottish secretaryship he received that of Ireland, where his position was a dangerous one for all the years he occupied it. In 1891 he became first lord of the treasury, a position he still holds, and to which he has added the honor of being the conservative leader in the commons. Balfour is a golf player, an equestrian, a student, a writer of philosophical works and treatises, a biographer, an Englishman who in debate Chamberlain strikes with a bludgeon; Balfour punctuates with a rapier. They say Chamberlain wins when everything is against him; that Balfour wins when all is with him. Some tales are told of Balfour that may be true. He is said to boast that he never reads the newspapers and that he enjoys his bed until noon. His supporters are constantly aggravated by his lack of respect for the house of commons. He attends its sessions a little as possible. He was born in Scotland July 25, 1848, and therefore is but 52 years of age—a young prime minister.

The marquis of Salisbury, the retiring premier, known in his younger days as "Bob Cecil," is the third marquis, and was born at Hatfield, the family seat, in Hertfordshire, February 13, 1830. He was educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford, where he was graduated, and he was elected a fellow of All Souls, the aristocratic and conservative college, in 1853. In the same year he entered parliament as a member for Stamford, which is and always has been a pocket borough of the Cecil family. He held the membership as a conservative until April, 1868, when he succeeded to the marquissate. While in the lower house he was known as Lord Robert Cecil and later as Lord Cranborne, a courtesy title. During his membership as a conservative he was a leader-writer on the daily press, a prolific contributor to the Saturday Review and a writer on ecclesiastical and political subjects in the Quarterly Review. During his long connection with the press he gained a reputation as a caustic, satirical and brilliant writer rather than a solid or profound thinker, though his articles are able and far above mediocrity. In 1857 he married Miss Alderson, daughter of the exchequer baron of the name and niece of Mrs. Ogle, the authoress. His official political career began with his appointment as secretary of state for India in 1866, a position which he resigned on account of objection to the Tory reform bill of 1867. In 1869 he was elected chancellor of the University of Oxford, succeeding the late earl of Derby. He again took the Indian secretaryship under Mr. Disraeli in 1874. During the Serbian war he was sent as special ambassador to the Porte during the Constantinople conference and managed the whole affair. In April, 1878, he was appointed foreign secretary and later went to the Berlin congress with Lord Beaconsfield, and brought back a part of the celebrated "peace with honor," for which he received the Order of the Garter. He became prime minister in 1885 and served until 1892. He assumed the same office in 1895 and held it until his resignation, last week. As a speaker he is effective, terse, clear and at all times vigorous and never feeble. In appearance he is tall, bent, awkward, bald-headed and ungainly, full-bearded and with melancholy, appealing eyes. He is a hard, earnest and faithful worker and has a right to be called a statesman, though an unscrupulous one. He is impetuous, cynical and a skirmisher in tactics. With him Toryism is an inborn, inbred and overpowering principle; he believes in that and that alone.

IS BOUND TO BE A SOLDIER

FORT WAYNE LAD LEADS PURSUERS A LIVELY CHASE.

Louis Neimeier, 17 Years Old, Defies Parents and Eludes Man Sent After Him.

A seventeen-year-old boy from Fort Wayne, who had his head set on getting to St. Louis, where he could enlist in the regular army, caused trouble enough for his pursuer last night and this morning to have precipitated a storm of profanity from a Quaker, says the Logansport Reporter. Yesterday afternoon Louis Neimeier, who resides with his parents on a farm in the vicinity of Fort Wayne, accompanied by two other boys who were likewise looking for war, left Fort Wayne with the intention of enlisting at the United States recruiting office at St. Louis. The boys' parents were opposed to the enlistment and commissioned William Nohrweid to head the boy off. He followed him to the town of Wabash, but missed his quarry there, and last night came to Logansport and began a search for the runaway. He found out that the boy and his companions would take the train which leaves the city at 7:42 a. m. and accordingly started for the station this morning to head them off. When he reached the Ninth street station the train was just disappearing down the track, and the boy, who had outwitted his pursuer, waved his hand in a joyful farewell as the train rounded the curve in the direction of the Wabash bridge.

Mr. Nohrweid went to police headquarters and asked that the Lafayette police be notified to take charge of the runaway, but the delay in getting long-distance telephone connection was such that the train had left Lafayette before the police of that city could get to the station.

The defeated Mr. Nohrweid finally gave up the chase and took the first train back to Fort Wayne, where he will see the boy's parents and have a telegram sent to St. Louis for the capture of the boy when the train arrives there, which it is scheduled to do at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Young Neimeier and his companions are well supplied with money and seem to be composed of the material of which good soldiers are made.

LONG FAST ENDS IN DEATH

MRS. AMANDA GEORGE EXPIRES AT ANDERSON.

Lived Sixty-Two Days Without Food—End Comes at Camp Grounds of Spiritualists.

Anderson, Ind., July 14.—Mrs. Amanda George, of Indianapolis, died last night at the spiritualist camp ground after sixty-two days without either solid or liquid food. Her long fast is said to have broken all records. She had been afflicted with cancer of the stomach. This necessitated the fasting, and she literally starved to death. She was seventy-eight years old.

Mrs. George was first taken ill four years ago with stomach troubles, which later developed into cancer. This was while she lived at Indianapolis. A year later she came to Chesterfield and took up her residence at the spiritualist camp grounds. A short while later she became seriously ill. Dr. Newhouse has been in constant attendance. He says she suffered a great deal all the time and this was especially true when she took food. Sixty-two days ago it became impossible for her to take food and from that time the woman has been fasting. Mrs. George was stout and Dr. Newhouse gives this as the reason for her living so long without nourishment. Her abdomen was three inches thick and she had been living on her own flesh. Mrs. George retained her mental activity up until two or three days ago.

It is via the Pennsylvania, July 24, to Niagara Falls and return for $6.50 via Cleveland and steamer. Cleveland and Buffalo line have assigned one of their best boats for this occasion.

SCROFULA

I bequeath to my children Scrofula with all its attendant horrors, humiliation and suffering. This is a strange legacy to leave to posterity; a heavy burden to place upon the shoulders of the young. This treacherous disease dwarfs the body and hinders the growth and development of the faculties, and the child born of blood poison, or scrofula-tainted parentage, is poorly equipped for life's duties. Scrofula is a disease with numerous and varied symptoms; enlarged glands or tumors about the neck and armpits, catarrh of the head, weak eyes and dreadful skin eruptions upon different parts of the body show the presence of tubercular or scrofulous matter in the blood. This dangerous and stealthy disease entrenches itself securely in the system and attacks the bones and tissues, destroys the red corpuscles of the blood, resulting in white swelling, a pallid, waxy appearance of the skin, loss of strength and a gradual wasting away of the body.

S. S. S. combines both purifying and tonic properties, and is guaranteed entirely vegetable, making it the ideal remedy in all scrofulous affections. It purifies the deteriorated blood, makes it rich and strong and a complete and permanent cure is soon effected. S. S. S. improves the digestion and assimilation of food, restores the lost properties to the blood and quickens the circulation, bringing a healthy color to the skin and vigor to the weak and emaciated body. Write us about your case and our physicians will cheerfully advise and help you in every possible way to regain your health. Book on blood and skin diseases free.

BASE BALL

The Sentinel was not much mistaken several days ago when it stated that the Shamrock base ball club was deserving of good patronage and that those who attended the games to be played by Fort Wayne's strongest amateur team and the professional Columbia Giants, of Chicago, would not feel as though they had wasted either time or money. The two games played at League park Saturday and yesterday were clean and clever and the attendance must certainly have been gratifying to the Shamrocks, who have never before been given any material proof of appreciation by the Fort Wayne public. On Saturday several hundred persons paid to see the game and yesterday about 1,000 persons were congregated at the old grounds, and the days of league ball were again forcibly brought to mind.
On Saturday the score was in favor of the Chicago colored gentlemen by a record of 5 to 3, and yesterday the Giants again won by a score of 5 to 2.
In only two innings yesterday were there any runs made by either side—the first and fourth. The visitors, with a hit and the foolishness of Mr. Grant Johnson, who knocked the ball over the left field fence, scored two in the first inning, and in the fourth a base on balls, a hit, an error and another hit let in three more, and that ended the visitors' record. In the first inning the Shamrocks made two hits and had a man hit by a pitched ball, which, together with the other plays incident to putting out the necessary three men, netted a run, and in the fourth two more hits and a sacrifice got another, and that ended the chapter.
All the way through it was an interesting and snappy game. The Shamrocks field with surprising skill, lit
the ball as hard as their adversaries could have a splendid battery. It's when they get men on bases that they fall down. Bad coaching, poor judgment and very bad base-running is what lost yesterday's game for the home team. The locals can get to the bases all right, but they apparently did not know what to do after they got there yesterday, and their coaching was badly neglected. The colored men on the other hand were in the game all the while and their team work and base running was excellent. Three or four of their men would be holding down fat jobs in one or the other of the big leagues today if the color line was abolished;
they certainly have several stars.
They are to a man professional players in every sense of the word. They play ball every day during the base ball season and most of them have been playing together for years.
That the Shamrocks made such a splendid showing against them is very much to their credit, indeed.
Many who saw the Cleveland-Washington game played on the same grounds two or three weeks ago insist that yesterday's performance was the better of the two. The score of yesterday's exhibition, kept with the same regard for technicalities as would have been in a championship game, is as follows:

AMONG THE LEAGUES.

The second half of the base ball season can be said to have started yesterday, and it started off very nicely, some excellent games having been played. The National league season opened April 17 and will close September 26, covering a period of 105 days. The American league season opened April 23 and will close September 29, 180 days, and the American association opened April 27 and will close September 22, 149 days, so it will be seen that the first half of the season for the National league closed July 8, for the American league July 11 and for the American association July 10.

In all the leagues 140 games are scheduled for the season and in none of them except the National had any club played one-half the number of games scheduled on Saturday night.
From a money-making point of view the profitable half of the season is over. Decoration day and July 4th are usually the profits of the season.
Of course, there is Labor day still to come, but it has never proven a money-getter anything like either of the other double-header days. Regarding the championship, it is probably safe to predict that the pennants will go to the present leaders. Taking June 2 as a date when all the clubs had got fairly into line, were playing in usual form and had been limbering up long enough to give out a line on their form and chances, it will be found that while the leaders have changed in all but the National league, the rank of the clubs as at present was fixed by consistent ball playing and not by accident. On June 2, in the National league, the first division consisted of Pittsburgh, Chicago, Brooklyn and Philadelphia, in the order named, while the second division was headed by New York, followed by Boston, St. Louis and Cincinnati. Today Boston and Philadelphia have changed places, while New York is forlorn and a hopeless tail-end.
Pittsburgh was never in danger of losing the preiership from start to finish. In the American league the first division stood, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Baltimore, and the second, Detroit, St. Louis, Washington, Cleveland. Since then Chicago has heaved its way steadily to the top, where it is now safely ensconced, Baltimore dropped into the second division and St. Louis moved up. Detroit, which started out like a cyclone for the first two games, hasn't got wind enough left to blow out a candle and is in eighth place, and is probably there to stay. In the American association the race is the prettiest and some of the best ball is being played. There has been absolutely no change in the standing of the clubs since June 2, excepting that Louisville and Columbus have changed places. Then Columbus was first and acted as though she could never lose another game, and Louisville was fourth, but doing right well. Today Columbus is fourth and by tomorrow may be in the second division, while Louisville seems to have a hold on first place that can't be shaken. The other clubs hold identically their same positions, with Toledo so firmly nailed fast to the floor at the bottom that the club has ceased trying to play and usually devotes the afternoon to abusing either the umpire or Manager Strobel.

Yesterday's games in the National league were all nice, clean affairs and were attended by a total of 23,600 persons in three cities. In the American league two games were played at Chicago to an even break with St. Louis and no other games were on the card, Cleveland and Detroit having played their Sunday game on Thursday last. Nearly 15,000 people saw the two games.
In the American association the best games of the whole bunch were played. In the four games there were only 25 runs made and only 12 errors. At Minneapolis a 1 to 0 game was played, but the greatest game was at Toledo, where the home team managed to win another game in 11 innings. The attendance at four cities was 12,138. Yesterday's

THE MARKETS.

Chicago, July 14.—Early trade in grain today was somewhat dull. September wheat opened a shade lower to 1/8c higher at 73 1/2c to 73 3/4c on reports of showers in several of the western states. Offerings, however, were liberal. Liverpool cables were trifle lower in response to our Saturday dip and prices eased off.
September sold at 73 1/2c and later stepped near 73 3/4c. Local receipts were 93 cars, 0 of contract grade, and 83 of new stuff. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 534 cars, making a total for the three points of 627, against 1,056 last week and 644 a year ago. World's shipments were 7,701,000 bushels against 6-263,000 bushels last week and 7-082,000 bushels a year ago. Breadstuffs on passage decreased 2,274-000 bushels. The Paris exchange was closed because of a holiday.

An increase in the visible wheat supply of 686,000 bushels against a decrease of nearly 200,000 bushels this time last year, together with estimate of 350 cars to come tomorrow started free selling of wheat.
The break in corn influenced wheat and September wheat closed weak, 3/4c lower, at 72 1/2c to 72 3/4c.

There was a fair show of weakness in corn at the opening. All holders of cash stuff were rushing it to market and as a result 472 cars were received, of which 110 were contract grade. Private elevators turned out 207 cars and 118,000 bushels. The total contract stuff for the day promised 550,000 bushels. In July there was almost no early trading. That option opened 1/2c down at 55 1/2c, but on one trade reacted to 56c. September opened a shade to 1/8c lower at 61 1/2c to 61 3/4c, sold off to 61 1/4c to 61 1/2c and steadied near 61 1/2c to 61 3/4c.

Estimate of 845 cars of corn to arrive tomorrow, and talk that there might be 1,000 cars, started liberal selling of both July and September options. July corn became very weak and dropped 1/2c down to 50 1/2c. September felt the pressure and closed weak, 1/8c to 1/4c down, at 61c. The principal influence of the day was the rapidly with which contract corn was being made and rushed to market. Some traders said the corner in July was broken.
That option rallied 1c from its low price, but closed very weak, 5c down, at 81c.

Oats made further recessions at the opening on reports that the worm weather of the last few days had helped the new crop much and that large quantities of the new grade were being offered by the farmers, particularly in Illinois. Offerings of future deliveries were free, some of which are in the way of profit-taking. New September opened a shade to 1/8c down at 35 1/2c to 35 3/4c and sold at 35c. Receipts were 87 cars with nothing of new.

In spite of liberal holding receipts and weaker prices at the yards provisions held up well, especially h-d.
The bullish sentiment inherent of late in this product helped the rest of the list. September pork opened unchanged at $18.70 and advanced 2 1/2c; September lard opened 3 1/2c up at $11.40 to $11.45, and September ribs 5c lower at $10.80, but rallied to $10.82 1/2c to $10.85.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, July 14.—Rock Island made an opening jump of 1 1/2, Colorado Fuel rose nearly a point and Atchafalpa advanced 3/4 on the taking of several blocks of upwards of 1,000 shares. There was no other feature in the trading, and prices were generally a fraction higher on a fairly distributed demand.

The market became active and generally strong, but there were some sharp losses in special stocks.
Missouri Pacific, Northwestern, Amalgamated and Anaconda sold a point or more below Saturday's close.
Rock Island was very feverish and rallied and reacted frequently. The largest demand was for St. Paul, which lifted 1 1/2 to 180 1/2. Gains also reached 1 to 1 1/2 in Atchafalpa,
New York Central, St. Paul, preferred and Colorado Fuel. The less active stocks that were bid up by a point or more included the Denver and Rio Grande stocks, North American and Pressed Steel Car preferred. There was a gain of 2 in General Electric and 3 in Pittsburgh-
C. & S. St. Louis
